Plan Embraces All Europe—Intends to Form Economic Federation

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright, 1931 By Post Pub. Co. Washington (CPA)—Economic history has been given a fateful turn in the last 48 hours by the presentation of a plan for a comprehensive European trade pact.

Austrian statesman, French foreign minister, Europe's greatest statesman, has offered to the Pan-European committee at Geneva a system to counterbalance and supersede the now famous proposal of Germany for a customs union with Austria.

The United States government looks sympathetically upon M. Briand's efforts to find a way to develop Europe into a more flexible economic unit, though, of course, American adherence is not sought and probably will not ever be officially given because in the working out of any plan for European union some American interests here and there will suffer while trade as a whole may gain.

Briefly, the object of the Briand plan is to bring order out of chaos in the economic situation of Europe, to bring order out of chaos in the economic situation of Europe, to bring order out of chaos in the economic situation of Europe.

DR. JULIUS CURTIUS

In Geneva Clash

Geneva (AP)—Julius Curtius, German foreign minister, and Aristide Briand, French foreign minister, clashed today over the proposed Austro-German customs accord as the commission on European federation resumed its sessions.

The German minister, in a general discussion of the economic situation in Europe, praised bilateral and regional customs agreements as the best remedy for the prevailing economic distress. Briand declared that such a union as Germany and Austria propose means "trouble for the peoples" and should be avoided.

The customs issue is not the whole of the economic problem, said Briand, and it is a result not a cause of the present economic distress.

Seek Cause Of Flames On Airplane

Aberdeen, Md. (AP)—Aircraft experts today sought to discover the cause of a fire aboard an Eastern Air transport plane that made a forced landing at Edgewood arsenal with smoke pouring from the cabin containing 18 passengers, none of whom was injured. As the craft touched the ground flames burned a hole in the lower left wing. Soldiers assisted the passengers, one a woman, to alight.

The plane, enroute from Richmond to New York yesterday afternoon was flying at an altitude of 1,500 feet, when the pilot, A. C. Komdat, observed smoke filling the control room. Five miles away he saw the landing field at Edgewood and nosed the big plane down. The co-pilot, G. J. MacDonald tried to get at the flames with an extinguisher but was unsuccessful.

The smoke entered the cabin with the passengers but there was no evidence of alarm. Some of the passengers had been with the plane since it took off from Richmond and others had joined it at Washington and Baltimore.

One passenger opened a window to let the smoke out and the draft evidently aided the fire but no flames visible until after the landing. The motors of the craft were not damaged.

A second plane was summoned from Washington and eight of the passengers continued their journey. The rest made plans to complete their trip by rail.

The pilots who are credited with several thousand hours flying declared they believed the plane could have gone further than the field here but added it was a good thing the landing was made.

The damage was confined to the fuselage and the wing.

The woman passenger was Miss Marion McKee of Atlanta.

FOUR KILLED, TEN HURT IN SPANISH OUTBREAK

Granada, Spain (AP)—Four persons were killed and ten injured during the night at nearby Alarcos when residents of the little town attempted to defend their church against incendiaries.

Word was spread about Alarcos that a band of anti-church demonstrators were coming to burn their church, after having destroyed the convent at Santa Fe, and they gathered on the outskirts of the village to repel them.

They attempted to stop an automobile filled with men coming from the direction of Santa Fe, firing at it. Those in the car fired back at them, killing three of the townsmen as the car careened off to the side and ran into a wall. The chauffeur was killed.

Those riding in the automobile told authorities investigating the affair that they had had nothing to do with the attack on the Santa Fe convent, which was damaged but not destroyed, and that they had fled at the townsmen thinking them to be Communists.

There were several arrests and the police do not entirely credit their story. The anti-church disturbances throughout Spain have greatly excited this district and many peasants have armed themselves to repel any band which may attack ecclesiastical buildings.

They asked a postponement of the habeas corpus hearing today to permit them to prepare arguments for release of the suspects.

STEVENS POINT FACTORY BURNS, $100,000 LOSS

Folding Furniture Works Destroyed—Utility Equipment Also Lost

Stevens Point (AP)—Damage estimated by owners at $100,000 resulted from fire which destroyed the Folding Furniture Works, Inc., and equipment of the Wisconsin Valley Electric company plant here today.

The three-story main factory building, three one-story warehouses and the boiler room of the Folding Furniture Works were razed. Firemen who entered the plant to salvage stock were driven out by smoke and intense heat.

During the height of the fire three electric line poles and a transformer were ignited, cutting off the city's electrical pumping system and forcing the use of abandoned gasoline units. Firemen from Wausau and Wisconsin Rapids assisted the local department.

Sparks which ignited the roof of an adjoining Wisconsin Electric company building also threatened for a time to explode a large gas container at the rear of the furniture plant. Officials of the Gas and Electric company said, however, the danger of an explosion was past.

Started During Night

The fire, believed to have originated near the elevator shaft on the third floor of the furniture factory, was discovered about 4 o'clock a. m. Firemen were still guarding the adjoining properties at noon. Between 150 and 200 electric company light poles stores in an adjoining yard were burned or badly damaged.

Mr. and Mrs. John Worzalla and Miss Catherine Kroll are the owners of the furniture factory which specialized in making children's cribs and beds and other juvenile furniture. About 80 men were employed at the plant. The factory site is located about three blocks from the main business district.

The owners estimated about $25,000 worth of raw materials, including lumber, baled cotton, ticking, etc., and $10,000 worth of finished products were destroyed. Cause of the fire had not been determined.

The frame was leaning on a wire fence according to reports to police, and tipped over, falling against the child. The McGuire boy and a brother, Leland, had been playing on the frame.

The McGuire boy was extricated by Ernest Maynard, 115 E. Spring-st. and a doctor was called. The physician pronounced the child dead on examination, the frame having caused internal injuries.

The child is survived by his parents, two brothers, Leland and Howard, Jr.; one sister, Fern; and his grand parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gustave Burmeister, and Mrs. Hannah McGuire, Appleton.

The body was taken to the Brett-Schneider funeral home.

COMPANION IN CANOE BROUGHT SAFELY ASHORE

Sterling A. Leonard Loses Life, English Lecturer Is Rescued

Madison (AP)—Sterling A. Leonard, 48, associate professor of English at the University of Wisconsin, was drowned in Lake Mendota here last night after clinging two hours to an overturned canoe, and his companion, I. A. Richards, 38, critic, lecturer and professor at Cambridge university, England, was rescued.

Richards, here for a lecture, went canoeing yesterday afternoon with Leonard. The lake was rough. At dusk, Don Tracy, boathouse owner, saw a man slumped in a drifting canoe. He ran alongside in a powerboat and found Richards exhausted. Tracy rushed him to a hospital where doctors said he was suffering from shock and exhaustion but would live.

The craft capsized in the waves. Richards said, and he and Leonard held to the gunwale for two hours awaiting help. Finally, he said, Leonard became exhausted and slipped beneath the water. Richards said he made an unsuccessful attempt to rescue Leonard and then succeeded in righting the canoe but was unable to get ashore.

At U. W. Since 1920

Widely known as an English critic and teacher, Leonard came here in 1920 from the University of Michigan where he had taught 13 years. He had written several books in his field and edited several volumes of poetry and prose collections. Born at National City, Calif., Leonard took his bachelor's degree at Simpson college, Indianapolis, Iowa, his master's at Michigan in 1908 and received a doctor of philosophy degree from Columbia university in 1928.

Leonard was a member and former president of the National Council of Teachers of English; a member of the Modern Language association of America; the American Association of University Professors and Phi Delta Kappa. He is survived by his widow and a daughter, Barbara Dorritt.

TEN UTILITIES IN OKLAHOMA FACE SUIT

Governor Murray Asks Forfeiture of Their Holdings in State

Oklahoma City (AP)—Gov. W. H. "Alfalfa Bill" Murray has started court proceedings with unexpected celebrity asking for the forfeiture of the holdings of ten public utility companies of the state.

Leon S. Hirsch, special attorney for Murray, late yesterday filed suit in state supreme court asking forfeiture of the companies' holdings in Oklahoma, confiscation of their properties and an injunction to prevent their continued operation.

Speedy action was necessary, Hirsch said, to forestall possible removal of properties to veil alleged law violations. A meeting for transfer of the properties was scheduled for this morning in New York, Hirsch asserted.

"We have rushed the filing of the petition," he said, "to give full notice of the nature of the proceedings."

Governor Murray was listed as plaintiff in the suit, directed against the Oklahoma Gas corporation, the Southwestern Natural Gas company, Quinlan Natural Gas company, Muskogean Natural Gas, Inc., Texokan Oil company, Oklahoma Natural Gas company, Ozark Public Service company, Ozark Holding company, American Natural Gas corporation, and Tri-Utilities corporation.

The Oklahoma Natural Gas corporation, the suit alleges, since May 1, 1930, have sought "to acquire a complete monopoly upon the production, transportation and marketing of gas in Oklahoma to restrain trade and commerce."

The Oklahoma Natural Gas corporation is accused "of having made 'false and fictitious' reports for rate fixing and taxation purposes."

Alleging interlocking ownership of the suit charges operation of the defendant companies under the conditions set forth is a "public nuisance."

ESTABLISH TRUCE IN STURGEON BAY STRIKE

Sturgeon Bay (AP)—A truce was in effect today in the Sturgeon Bay high school strike in which 300 students walked out in protest against the school board's refusal to renew contracts for two teachers.

At a mass meeting last night attended by 2,500 students and citizens, Virgil Alberts, student leader, and his followers, agreed to the suggestion of Joe Martin, Green Bay, that a citizens' committee be empowered to investigate and act for the students. The students agreed to go back to school Monday.

Five prominent citizens were selected to confer with the school board. The board has remained steadfast in its refusal to reconsider its action regarding the two teachers.

Watch Reaction To Labor's Struggle To Keep Up Wages

Washington (AP)—Despite official silence on labor's warning that strikes may oppose wage cuts, the administration apparently has not abandoned its belief in the soundness of efforts to maintain present living standards.

President Hoover is watching closely reactions to the statement by President William Green of the American Federation of Labor that workers "would be fully justified in resisting attempts to reduce wages even to the extent of striking."

The administration believes, however, that wage levels generally have not declined although hours of work have been shortened in some industries. Significance has been attached to reports that William Green discussed the question with government officials before issuing his strike dictum.

Among the last official statements from the administration was a speech by Secretary Mellon on May 5 before banker delegates to the International Chamber of Commerce congress. He said then that the "standard of living must be maintained at all costs" and that "cor-

Court attaches said Nelson H. Carver, special prosecutor from Washington, probably would handle the government's case against the trio.

For civilian earnings in the manufacturing industries was placed at 1.5 per cent less than in the preceding month.

LOWER PAY FOR WOMEN

Washington (AP)—The woman's bureau of the department of labor today made public a report saying the clerical or white collar workers in New York "must have had to adjust their life during the past year to a lower standard of living in order to make their reduced earnings cover the necessities of life."

The report, made by the division of women in industry of the New York Department of Labor, was based upon a study of reduced wages in New York City between the fall of 1929 and the present. The report cited not only numerous reductions in the wages of clerical workers but added that "specialized office workers, such as those having experience in insurance companies or banks and brokerage houses, have also felt the hard times."

It is said wages for domestic workers apparently had gone down more than for any other class.

SCHOOL BANDS THRILL VALLEY IN BIG PARADE

Thousands Watch High School Musicians March Through Menasha

Menasha (AP)—Resplendent in various colored uniforms, 66 Wisconsin high school bands marched and maneuvered through Menasha streets Friday afternoon in the most spectacular feature of the eleventh annual state band tournament this weekend.

Thousands of spectators, standing at second story windows, on roofs of Main-st buildings, and on streets and sidewalks along the entire line of March, watched more than 3,000 musicians swing along in the largest parade in the state. For more than three hours, strutting drum majors led their bands past the reviewing stand, directing intricate maneuvers, and swinging their batons in time to fast band marches.

Parade Before Governor

As each organization passed the reviewing stand, they paraded before Governor Philip LaFollette, United States Senator and Mrs. John J. Blaine, State Superintendent of Schools and Mrs. John Callahan, the Hon. and Mrs. Daniel Grady, and Mr. and Mrs. William E. Jue of Madison, in addition to Mayor N. G. Remmel of Menasha, Mayor George Sando of Neenah, Mayor John Goodland of Appleton, band tournament officials, judges, city and county officials, and members of the school board.

In a brief program before the parade, brought to the thousands of spectators by means of a loud speaker system, Governor LaFollette lauded the work of Wisconsin high school bands and the work of Menasha in the role of tournament host, stating that it was a privilege to be the guest of the city during the tournament.

Short talks also were given by Senator Blaine, Superintendent Callahan, Mr. E. Jue, editor of the Capital Times at Madison, Mr. Grady, Mayor Remmel, Mayor Sando, Mayor Goodland, J. M. Sensesbrenner, chairman of the tournament executive committee, and Alderman T. E. McMillan, chairman in charge of tournament publicity.

Police Lead March

James Lyman, chief of Menasha police, and a squad of mounted police officers, led the parade as it swung onto Main-st about 3:30 P. M. Friday afternoon. The police were followed by color bearers of the Menasha Eagles' Drum corps, the van-

HOLD EX-CONVICT AS SLAYER OF SISTERS

Earl Quinn Trapped By Detectives—Wanted in Oklahoma Murders

Kansas City (AP)—A manhunt that began when the bodies of two school teacher sisters were found near Topeka, Okla., last June, was ended today, with Earl Quinn, 30, ex-convict, protesting innocence from a jail cell here.

Quinn, charged with murder in the shooting of Zella Griffith, 24, and Jessie Griffith, 24, the latter of whom physicians said was criminally assaulted, was arrested in Omaha, Neb., yesterday.

Kansas City detectives trapped the suspect at the Omaha Union station as he sought to meet his wife, who they said was in the city. While announcing he would fight extradition, they quoted him as expressing relief at his arrest.

"I'm glad the chase is over," he said. "It's a bum rap and I can beat it."

Extradition papers for Quinn, who once served a term in the Missouri penitentiary, were sought in Oklahoma City by Bruce Potter, Kay-co attorney, and Sheriff Joe Cooper.

The sisters were found dead, lying face down, in a field near a Christmas visit with their parents in Blackwell, Okla. The elder was director of home economics at the Warner, Okla., school of agriculture and Jessie taught music in public schools at Norman.

Officers said clues which pointed to Quinn as the slayer included finger prints and a vest button found in the teachers' bloodstained coats and the fact he had been patrolling the highway announcing to motorists a plan to "hijack" a boot-legger.

Manchester, Iowa (AP)—Henry Briggs, 42, Madison, Wis., and Arthur Heniges, 25, Manchester, were held in jail here today in connection with the robbery of the Wells-Hunt general store at Earlville. Failure of the men to turn on the headlights of their automobile led to their apprehension.

FOUR HELD ON SUSPICION BY CHICAGO COPS

Two Seized by Wisconsin Officials After Meinhardt State Bank Robbery

ONE SUSPECT WOUNDED

Another Alleged Principal Being Sought by Police of Two States

Racine (AP)—On advice that four men were held on suspicion of complicity in the robbery of the Meinhardt State bank at Burlington, Wis., Sheriff John Anderson, Frank Lenski, deputy sheriff, and Paul Jorgensen, assistant district attorney, left here today for Chicago to question the suspects.

Chicago authorities said the men gave the names of E. L. Kamin and Walter Kamin of Silver Lake, Wis., and Michael Fleunkner and William Ellis of Burlington. Sheriff Anderson said three of them are brothers of Frank Kamin and Reinhold Fleunkner, in custody at Kenosha in connection with the robbery.

The four were taken into custody at Chicago last night after Wisconsin authorities in reconstructing the robbery were inclined to believe more than three men took part.

Kenosha Authorities Today Searched Southern Wisconsin and Northern Illinois for One of Three Men Who Escaped After Robbing the Burlington (Wis.) Meinhardt State Bank of About $10,000

Kenosha (AP)—Authorities today searched southern Wisconsin and northern Illinois for one of three men who escaped after robbing the Burlington (Wis.) Meinhardt State bank of about $10,000. Frank Kamin, 27, Silver Lake, and Reinhold Fleunkner, 31, Burlington roadhouse operator, were apprehended and held for questioning. Kamin had been shot through the neck and body.

The robbers escaped after a gun battle with Policeman H. W. Schoeninger who ran to the scene of the robbery as Miss Edna Meinhardt, cashier, ran screaming from the bank. Three bloodstained handkerchiefs were found abandoned near Stiles Corner. It had been pierced with slugs from Schoeninger's shotgun.

Kamin and Fleunkner were discovered in a cottage at Twin Lakes after residents reported seeing suspicious characters. Deputy sheriffs who made the arrests said the pair offered no resistance but denied parading in the robbery. Sheriff Stephen Robinson said no money was found on them but that a stocking with holes cut in it for use as a mask was discovered in their possession. Both were released a year ago after questioning concerning a robbery of a Silver Lake bank, he said, and Fleunkner has a police record of petty crimes.

MAY EXTRADITE CONVICT

Pickard (AP)—Winnebago-co authorities said today they will seek extradition of John Buley, St. Louis, serving a one to five year term in the state reformatory at Penitentiary, Ind., to face charges in the hold-up of the state bank here last Jan. 30.

Buley, traced through a number of Wisconsin, Indiana and Michigan towns to the reformatory, has been identified by the cashier of the bank, authorities said. No trace of his camp, Buley, believed to be Joe Goodwin, St. Louis, has been found. Buley was committed on a charge of larceny.

Liberal Policy Urged By Nye For Republican Party In 1932

UTILITIES BIG ISSUE IN RACE, SENATOR SAYS

Thinks Roosevelt Would Run Strong in North Dakota and Neighbor States

New York (AP)—Senator Gerald P. Nye of North Dakota said today that the Republican party must adopt a liberal policy, particularly toward public utilities, if it hopes to carry the middle west in 1932.

Senator Nye, a Progressive Republican, declared he looked for public utilities to be the big issue in 1932. He said Governor Roosevelt would be "a very strong candidate indeed" in North Dakota and surrounding states—stronger than former Governor Smith or Owen D. Young.

"Public utilities is the most important issue today, and I look for it to be the big issue in 1932," Senator Nye said. "Electricity—light and power and other utilities, like other monopolies, will have a stranglehold on us which it will take many years to loosen unless we take steps for their proper regulation."

"We in North Dakota are watching with great interest the St. Lawrence river project, because the St. Lawrence is our road to the sea."

Prohibition, he said, will be no issue in North Dakota, "unless the vets make it so."

"You know," he said, "sometimes I think the reason for stirring up prohibition is to draw a curtain over the real issues which this country has and which I believe are economic."

Remarking that he is a Republican, Senator Nye added: "There are some who would deny that. Sometimes I wonder what the difference between a Republican and a Democrat is."

Senator Nye, who is chairman of the senate campaign funds investigation committee, has been in New York conferring with Senator Robert F. Wagner, a fellow member, regarding the policy to be adopted by the committee toward Bishop Cannon and the anti-Smith fund of $55,000 contributed by E. C. Jameson of New York.

FRENCH PROSECUTOR IN SURPRISE MOVE

Asks Mrs. Nixon-Nirdlinger Be Given Two to Five Year Sentence

Nice, France (AP)—A verdict of "murder with excuse of provocation" will be asked by the prosecution when Charlotte Nixon-Nirdlinger, formerly of St. Louis, Mo., goes on trial next Wednesday for shooting her husband in the city here last March. It was charged that the conviction would carry a maximum prison sentence of five years and a minimum of two years.

This version of the prosecutions intentions is believed to have upset the defense plans considerably, for the woman's attorney had expected the prosecutor would demand at least five years solitary confinement, in which case they expected an acquittal.

The panel from which the jury will be drawn is composed mostly of business men and is an exceptionally high class group.

Mrs. Nixon-Nirdlinger killed Fred G. Nixon-Nirdlinger, Philadelphia theatrical magnate, on March 11. There were no witnesses and his sons by a former marriage refused to prosecute.

Although the defense has not disclosed details of its plans, it is generally expected it will enter a plea of self-defense.

Mrs. Nixon-Nirdlinger said that her husband, at the climax of a bitter quarrel, accused her of being too attentive to another man. He threatened her and then attacked her, she said. Then she shot him.

The defendant is 36 years old. Her husband was 54. They were married after she had participated in a beauty contest as the representative of St. Louis. There are two young children.

46 PER CENT OF COUNTY DOG TAX MONEY REFUNDED

Treasurer Sends Checks to Town, Village and City Clerks

Approximately 46 per cent of the money paid in dog taxes in Outagamie-co in 1930 by towns, villages and cities has been refunded, according to John E. Hantschel, county clerk. Checks were sent to various clerks in the county this week by Miss Marie Ziegler, treasurer.

A year ago there was a deficit in the dog tax, and the county board decided to raise the tax to $3 on females and $2 on males to offset the difference, according to Mr. Hantschel. The former tax was $2 on females and $1 on males.

Following are the towns, villages and cities and the amount of money refunded: Appleton, $728.28; Kaukauna, $189.41; New London, $19.41; Seymour, $45.39; Balck Creek, $143.28; Bovina, $55.58; Buchanan, $107.29; Center, $194.05; Cleora, $251.29; Dale, $104.03; Deer Creek, $125.05; Ellington, $12.24; Freedom, $173.14 and Grand Chute, $58.65.

The town of Greenville received, $143.07; Hortonville, $68.95; Kaukauna, $67.18; Liberty, $70.04; Maine, $88.55; Maple Creek, $95.31; Oneida, $106.64; Osborn, $84.15; Seymour, $149.38; and Vandenboren, $66.60.

The village of Bear Creek received, $4.77; Black Creek, $38.18; Combined Locks, $22.07; Hortonville, $33.33; Kimberly, $41.95; Little Chute, $76.75; and Shiocton, $12.29.

Suicide Club Being Probed In New York

New York (AP)—Acting on a spinster's tale of a "Suicide club" with 26 living members, the law machinery of two Long Island counties was set in motion today to avert the possibility of a series of suicides.

The supposed club was described yesterday by Miss Louise Schwarz 59, in telling of the death of her brother, Edward, 55, who was found shot in his home at West Amityville last Wednesday. She has been indicted in connection with the shooting.

"Every Sunday night," she said, "we meet at the home of a member to pray that one of us would be cured of the club."

There were 30 members. Four of them are dead.

"If the member we prayed for was not receptive to our prayers, he was bound to commit suicide. If he failed to end his own life before the next meeting, he was to be slain by a chosen member of the club."

"On April 26 we met at the home of George Breitenbach, 59, who lived near us. He was not receptive."

The next day the body of George Breitenbach, was found hanging in the cellar of his home, authorities said. They would not disclose any other names of alleged members of the club, living or dead.

Last Sunday, Miss Schwarz was quoted as saying, the club met and prayed for her brother. Medical examiners said the location of wounds on the brother's head indicated he could not have fired the shots which killed him and so Miss Schwarz has been charged with the slaying.

Miss Schwarz pleaded not guilty when arraigned today on a charge of murder in the second degree.

HOLD PUBLIC HEARING ON STREET PAVING

A public hearing on the assessment of benefits and damages for the paving of four streets was held at city hall Friday afternoon. Several objections to the assessment on River-dr. to be paved with bitulithic, will be considered by the board of public works at a meeting next week.

The River-dr assessment is $1 a lineal foot. Property owners on Ida-st will have to pay only $3 a foot for the same type of pavement, as Ida is a much narrower street. The assessment for concrete paving on Verbrick-st is $3 and on South River-st, from 20 to $5 cents. A variation in width and the assistance of the county in paving this street account for the difference in the assessments.

COMMITTEE MEETS

The finance committee met at city hall Friday afternoon. Bills to be presented at the next meeting of the common council were approved.

SEMINARY LEADER IN THREE TALKS AT MISSION FESTIVAL

Dr. A. W. Palmer, Chicago, to Give Address Here Sunday

Dr. A. W. Palmer, president of the Chicago Theological seminary, will deliver three addresses at the mission festival at the Congregational church Sunday. In the morning he will talk on "A New Appraisal of Foreign Missions" in the afternoon he will give an informal address at the lawn fete in the Congregational park, and in the evening he will give an illustrated lecture on the Hawaiian Islands. He will also speak at the college convocation at Memorial chapel at 10 o'clock Monday morning.

Dr. Palmer is the author of "The Hidden Side of Hawaii," "The Christian Epic," joint author of "Whither Christianity," and editor of the "Aids and Worship" section of the new "Inter-Church Hymnal."

Dr. Palmer was born in Kansas City, Mo., but at the age of three his parents moved to Los Angeles, Calif., and he spent the rest of his childhood in California. After graduating from the Santa Barbara high school and the University of California, an interest in social problems moved him to enter the ministry. He attended Yale Divinity school, graduating from there in 1904. He was ordained the same year at Redlands, Calif., and he spent the next three years as pastor, Plymouth church at Oakland, Central Union church in Honolulu, and First church of Oak park, a total ministry of more than 25 years.

He has travelled extensively in the interests of religious work, his duties having taken him twice to the Orient, four times to Europe, and more recently to Egypt, Palestine and Greece. In addition he served the Army Y. M. C. A. in Siberia with the A. E. F. in 1919.

Besides the address by Dr. Palmer, a play, "The Color Line," a high school band concert, and several musical numbers will be presented at the lawn fete at 4:30 Sunday afternoon. There will be a sacred concert by the choir, quartet and organist in the evening, and special musical numbers at the 11 o'clock services in the morning.

CATHOLIC WORLD PAYS HONOR TO ST. THERESE

Lisieux, Normandy, France (AP)—This old-world town tomorrow will become the goal of a religious pilgrimage that will bring visitors from all over France and beyond the seas.

Sunday is the sixth anniversary of the canonization of Saint Therese of the Infant Jesus, the Carmelite nun whose veneration is general throughout the Roman Catholic world.

Held up as model for young womanhood of the all countries, St. Therese will be honored here in her own town by the dedication of an enclosure destined to surround the great "Basilica of Peace" which is to be a monument of her memory.

For the past two days, beginning with the feast of the Ascension, a tridium has been in progress at the chapel of the Carmel, where the shrine of the "Little Flower" is situated. Tomorrow morning solemn pontifical high mass will be sung there. Immediately after, on the hill where the basilica will be erected, the site will be formally blessed.

The basilica's crypt, destined to contain the remains of the saint will be dedicated next Easter. The main structure should be completed by 1936.

CONFERENCES ON ECONOMY OCCUPY HOOVER AT CAMP

Interior Department Officials Consider Ways of Cutting Expenses

Washington (AP)—President Hoover's recreation at his Rapidan camp this weekend promised to be mostly work.

Invited to meet him at his mountain fishing lodge were Secretary Wilbur and chiefs of all interior department bureaus. The object was to find some place in the department where the government can save money.

The conference scheduled for today and tomorrow constituted the second gathering of departmental and bureau heads at the Rapidan on ways and means of curtailing expenditures. Last week Secretary Hurley and war department chiefs spent the two days planning economy moves.

The president's plans called for an early departure from the White House. In addition to departmental officials he was to be accompanied by his son, Herbert Hoover, Jr., who recently returned from Asheville, N. C., and the younger Mrs. Hoover. Young Hoover spent two months at the camp last fall being treated for incipient tuberculosis. It will be his first visit since returning from Asheville.

Edward H. Butler, publisher of the Buffalo Evening News, and Mrs. Butler, and Senator Hastings of Delaware, also were to be guests.

Interior department activities present a more difficult problem as most of them are in the nature of public works and social welfare, such as the Boulder Canyon dam and duties of the Indian bureau.

President Hoover has vigorously opposed curtailment of public works, which he regards as a means to lessen unemployment, and it was at his solicitation that the funds of the Indian bureau were increased.

President Coolidge centered his economy program in the interior department and when the Hoover administration came into office the appropriation for this branch was materially increased upon the recommendation of President Hoover. Interior department officials express skepticism as to any real economies being possible without crippling the department's work.

Church Sees Dry Law As First Issue

Birmingham, Ala. (AP)—The social service board of the southern Baptist convention today described prohibition as the paramount problem before the nation, deplored the "growing divorce evil," and advocated a working day or not more than nine hours, or a working week of not more than 48 hours.

"The big battle in the whole field of social service and civic affairs is still being fought out on the prohibition sector," the report said. "We cannot, we need not, go into details. Our appeal is for action, for defense, for attack."

"The commission on law observance and enforcement appointed by the president two years ago, popularly known as the Volstead commission, filed its report on prohibition some weeks since. This is perhaps the outstanding development of the past year."

"Prohibition ought not to be a party issue in the next presidential campaign. If it shall become an issue it will be because of shortsighted and reckless party leadership and the party that espouses the interests and cause of liquor will be courted its own doom."

Referring to the secular press of the nation the report said that "the metropolitan dailies . . . seem to have become utterly commercialized, if not subsidized."

The report pointed to the "growing divorce evil" and declared legislation passed the past year making divorce easier was "perhaps the most shameful and humiliating development concerning divorce in the history of the country."

On industrial relations the report defended the right of labor to organize and engage in collective bargaining, a fair living wage for laborers who work in factories and mines, and a day of not more than nine hours and a week of not more than forty nine and a half hours.

CONDITION OF MAIL CARRIER IMPROVED

William Kositzke, Appleton mail carrier, is still in St. Elizabeth hospital convalescing from injuries received on the afternoon of April 21 when the bicycle he was riding and a truck owned by the Segal Co. collided. His condition is said to be much improved. Mr. Kositzke suffered a fractured pelvis and hip bone.

Blue-Gill, Crappy Fishing Found In North Country

BY D. A. CLAFLIN

When you get up into the country of game fish and beautiful scenery around Minocqua and Woodruff the angler's mind naturally leans to the taking of a musky, or at least to the attempt to get one. They are there in all the waters, but they are nowhere as easily taken as many surmise, especially by those who are on their initial trip to the land of lakes.

Often, many days of diligent casting elapse before one of these tigers of the fresh water is met with. And often, too, many trips are made with nary a strike at all. I've been through the mill. The next ambition of the enthusiastic angler is a try for walleyes. These fine fish are far more common than Bluegills and crappies, and no angler need be disappointed in his quest for them.

But, after all is said and done, musky, bass and pike fishing depends largely on the angler's knowledge of their habits, his equipment and above all his patience. Many, not versed in fishing lore, turn to the lesser varieties of pan fishes. And that is the reason I am writing this article. I want to tell them where they can find some of the finest blue-gill and crappy fishing to be had in the entire north country.

If you will look at your map you will see highway 47 leading from Minocqua to Woodruff. Midway between these two towns, which are only two miles apart, you will note highway 70 leading north—from 47. Follow this for a few miles out until you come to a resort sign, where the road leads to Mercer Lake, which is the famous blue-gill and crappie waters that I want to tell you about.

Take this road to the right, then. Here you can get a good boat and directions to the part of the lake that literally teems with blue-gills and crappies. And boy! In all my travels I have never caught finer blue-gills. They will weigh nearly a pound apiece. And don't think they are not gamey.

I use a fly rod in taking them and June Bug spinners for lures. At other times I take them on surface flies. The best time to fish fly for them is along toward evening.

John Frank, ninth grade student won the first oratorical contest at Roosevelt junior high school Friday afternoon in the student assembly. The winners address was "Hoover at Mid-Term."

Donald Gerlach placed second with his subject, "Must Wages Fall," and Bernice Williams was third with "The Veterans' Gold Rush." Lawrence Herzog spoke on "British Dole is Rising to Fright Figures," and Ruth Merkle discussed "Hoover's Capture of Porto Rico."

The judges for the event were Herbert Helble and Bruno Krueger from Appleton high school and W. E. Smith.

PILGRIMS FLOCKING TO HOLY ISLE IN IRELAND

Donegal, Irish Free State (AP)—Pilgrims from many parts of Ireland were flocking today to the Holy Island on Lake Derg, county of Donegal which tradition says is the most sacred spot owned by the Celtic peoples.

Cardinal MacRory tomorrow will consecrate the Basilica church, reckoned as the most modern church in the country. Archbishop Robinson, the first papal nuncio to visit the island since Mgr. Chiericatti was named there in a hollow beech tree in 1515, will participate in the ceremony.

Unlike most Donegal lakes, Lake Derg contains no salmon because tradition says, Saint Patrick cursed them when he mistook the back of a slippery fish for a stepping stone. The rocks on the island are worn smooth by the feet of the pilgrims of bygone years.

QUICK ACTION URGED ON U. S. WATERWAYS

Brookhart Opposes Construction of Proposed Nicaraguan Canal

Washington—(AP)—Speedier development of the inland waterways system was demanded yesterday by Senator Brookhart, Republican, Iowa, in opposing construction of a Nicaraguan canal.

Survey of a canal route connecting the Atlantic and Pacific across Nicaragua was ordered by congress two years ago and recently was completed.

"The Panama canal," said Senator Brookhart, "has worked heavy disastage against the Mississippi valley. Its benefits have all gone to the Atlantic and Pacific coasts. It has been the basis of one of the worst jugglings in railroad rates in all their history."

"The development of the inland waterways system from the lakes to the gulf, possibly both from Chicago and Lake Erie, the development of the Mississippi to St. Paul, the development of the Missouri to Montana, together with the Ohio development and together with an efficient federal barge line over the whole system, would do much to remove this discrimination and equalize the benefits of the canal for the whole country."

Rural Graduates Prepare For Commencement Trip To Capital

SECOND TOUR LEAVES CITY IN ONE WEEK

Approximately 300 Students Expected to Go to National Capital

The second annual commencement trip to Washington, D. C. Outagamie county rural school graduates, teachers, parents and friends, will start at the Chicago and Northwestern depot here at 7 o'clock Sunday morning, May 24, according to A. G. Meating, county superintendent of schools. About 300 students are expected to take the trip.

County graduates of 1930 were the first to go to the national capital, the first attracting nationwide attention. They received their diplomas on the steps of the capitol and later met President Hoover.

"We have not tried to interest as large a group as last year, but several hundred will be in the party," Mr. Meating said. "There still is room for interested friends from the county or city."

"The class of 1931 is to have no less distinction for continuing a plan that is unique, and the calls for the sincerest appreciation of citizenship, responsibility and privilege that parents of a county can offer."

"The tours are distinctly educational, the young pupils knowing the historical, civic and geographical background of the territory they will visit. The famous people who lived around Washington in colonial days and during the formative period of the union are known to them as real people."

Carry Own Lunch
The group will arrive in Chicago Sunday noon, where it will transfer to the Belvidere and Ohio railroad. Individuals are to carry their own box lunches to cover lunch, and dinner on this day and also breakfast on the next morning, according to Mr. Meating.

Sunday afternoon the special train will pass through the dense country of Indiana into Garrett, Ind., where watches will be set one hour ahead, changing from central to eastern standard time. Around midnight Sunday it will pass through Youngstown, Ohio, and Pittsburgh Pa., where the pupils will get a glimpse of blast furnaces.

There will be a daylight trip through the Cumberland and Blue Ridge mountains, along the Potomac river into historical Harper's Ferry, W. V., where a 40-minute stop will be made. The train is expected to arrive at Washington at 10 o'clock Monday morning.

Points of interest to be visited in Washington, D. C., will include capitol building, Senate and Congressional chambers, Hall of Fame, White House, and others. There will be side trips to the city of which will be optional. Special tours will be to Annapolis Naval academy, the Catholic Monastery, and other points of interest near Washington.

Tuesday side trips will carry the students to Mount Vernon, home of George Washington; Tomb of the Unknown Soldier, Alexandria, and Arlington cemetery.

The trip home will start at 8:30 Tuesday evening, the train arriving in Chicago at 2:30 Wednesday afternoon. At 7:30 in the evening the students will arrive in Appleton on the Northwestern road.

THREE SENTENCED FOR SPIRIT FALLS HOLDUP

Waushara.—(P)—Reformatory terms of not less than three or more than ten years were imposed in circuit court here today on William Hippe, Victor Meyers, and Mitchell Ralder, Taylor-co farm youths, who pleaded guilty to the robbery of the A. J. Pittman store at Spirit Falls, Lincoln-co, Monday night.

Hippe admitted, authorities said, he entered the store, carrying a revolver, and forced Pittman to hand over about $80 while his two companions waited in an automobile outside. After the robbery the youths drove to Tripoli and on to Prentice where they were arrested.

The trio pleaded for leniency, declaring they were seeking employment when they ran out of gasoline and decided upon the robbery. Court records showed the youths had previously been arrested on charges of larceny. The other two claimed it was their first offense.

"Near this site, Sept. 8, 1826, the Menominee Indians ceded" to the United States by the Treaty of the Cedars, four million acres between the Fox, Wolf and Menominee rivers."

This is the inscription on the bronze tablet affixed to the huge hornblende granite boulder which will be unveiled by Princess Alice Oshkosh of the Menominee, at the dedication ceremonies at 2:30 Monday afternoon at Cedar Point, to commemorate the signing of this important Wisconsin document.

A smaller tablet at the back of the stone has the wording, "Every Third Dedicated by the Lion's club, May 18, 1931."

CONSTRUCT HOMES NOW, IS ADVICE TO MR. CITIZEN

These Are Bargain Days for Builders, Says Roger Babson

Babson Park, Mass.—Contractors able to build the best five and six-room houses at a cost from $4,000 to $7,000 above the price of the land will be the ones to prosper most during 1931. Already small home building is distinctly picking up while other types such as stores, offices, and industrial building continue to lag. The demand is insistent for low priced homes. Wealthy men whose assets and income have shrunk under the bombardment of falling security prices are not now in the mood for building expensive estates. Moreover, the middle classes who in 1929 would have built only in the $12,000 to $20,000 class have scaled down their ideas and are now anxious to have smaller homes. The cost of building an ordinary frame house has dropped twenty per cent since the boom times, which makes it possible to get a much better house in the low price class than was formerly the case. Also the banks are now more willing to finance small homes than large ones. I am a firm believer in home ownership. The city or town having the most home owners is generally the community where local government is the cleanest and where the character of the citizenship is the best. Hence I believe it is the duty of the building industry, the banks, the newspapers, and real estate developers to advertise the advantages which the prospective home owner will reap by building now. While some communities may still be suffering from the over-building of the pre-depression boom, surveys show that for ordinary residences there is no general over-supply. For two years home building has been from 30 per cent to 50 per cent below normal.

A gap has been created in the supply of small homes. While this is not a time for enthusiastic speculative building, it is distinctly a time for individual home building. The man who builds now not only greatly benefits himself through low costs, but also helps employment and raises the general standard of business in his community.

Big Building Dollars

These are big bargain days for home builders. The building dollar for ordinary frame houses will go one and one-fifth to one and one-quarter times as far as it would in 1929. Look at a list of prices on staple building materials. Cement is down two and one-half per cent from 1929, and is the lowest since 1915. Lumber is down about twenty-five per cent. Nails are down twenty-eight per cent. Hardware is down twenty-one per cent. Lead, zinc, tile, glass, and other miscellaneous items are down anywhere from ten to fifty per cent. Certainly the building material industry is offering wonderful price concessions.

"But," is asked, "what about building wages? The wage scale has not come down." True, the wage scale may be nominally the same, but with so many unemployed men in the building trades workers are accepting cuts rather than be idle. Labor costs per job are lower. Greater efficiency and more satisfactory work is resulting. Wages are a big factor in building, but do not be misled by wage scales. They do not spell total labor costs. Near the end of 1930 the Marine Trust Company of Buffalo published the following survey costs, wages and materials included, for a typical story and half small home, six rooms and bath. Since then costs have declined further:

	Today	1929
Masonry	$365.50	$700.00
Lumber & Millwork	2044.66	2407.69
Plastering	325.00	335.00
Plumbing	475.00	493.00
Heating	210.00	250.00
Painting	335.00	400.00
Hardware	77.00	97.50
Electrical fixtures	143.00	178.00
Tile	54.00	45.00
Gas Service	34.45	45.45
Shades	20.00	30.00
Miscellaneous	50.85	50.85
Total	$4349.46	$5013.33

Financing Improvements

One thing that has retarded home building is the reluctance of banks in the smaller communities to loan. The banks cannot be blamed for this, because they have been urged on every side to keep highly liquid. Many of them were tied up with too much real estate paper when the financial crash came two years ago. However, this is gradually being liquidated and as general business improves the banks will have more confidence. Some progressive lumber companies are sponsoring small home loans. One of the largest mail order concerns is building a big business in read-out houses by offering easy financing terms. High officials at Washington are working hard on this matter of home financing and should soon evolve some plan which they can offer as an aid to the problem. The government's interest in encouraging home building is two-fold: First, to raise the standard of citizenship, and second, to aid in the unemployment problem. A big push along this line will soon be seen emanating from Washington.

If there was a time when people were justified in borrowing it is at the present time, now when you borrow and invest in a home you are investing in under-priced lumber, bricks, mortar, cement, hardware, pipe, and other commodities going to make up your house.

These things will be more valuable rather than less so as business improves. Hence the protection of your loan will increase. Moreover, land values will be better. There is only so much good land and there can never be any more. Well situated property will show a steady growth in value and suburban areas

Halt Destructive Forces As Business Turns Upward

BY ALLARD SMITH
Executive Vice President, the Union Trust Co., Cleveland, O.

The most important fact in the business situation of the first four months of the year, now completed, is that the destructive forces at work in 1930 have largely been halted. This helps to balance the other fact that there has been no vigorous spring upturn in trade.

What seems to be happening is that the precipitate declines have been arrested in many lines and that a sound basis for recovery is being established. Actually here and there evidence of improvement is to be seen. The most important of these signs are found in the textile, rubber, automobile and some branches of the building industry. Even more remarkable is the fact that the rapid fall of wheat prices has been replaced by distinct signs of firmness.

Improvement in the textile industry is of no little significance. This is a branch of activity which usually is the first to revive after a depression largely because it reflects exhaustion of stocks brought on by severe economy on the part of consumers and sharp curtailment on the part of producers.

In the automobile and parts industries, April output gained and schedules for May show further improvement. Some parts manufacturers report that for the first time in six years May schedules show an increase compared with the production of automobiles in April is estimated at 248,000 cars and trucks compared with 239,000 in March and 145,000 cars in April, 1930.

Society Glories In Horse Show Despite Bad Weather

BY SALLIE V. H. PICKETT
Washington — (P) — In water-soaked and mud-splashed attire, the smart folk of Washington society strolled over the sopping walks under dripping skies on the opening days of the National Capital Horse Show. But even with this handicap the event may honestly be called a brilliant get-away. Miss Katrina McCormick, elder daughter of Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, with her younger sister, Miss Bazy McCormick, won golden laurels with three entries, Madame Queen, Ramfusa and Clifton Chase of Chicago.

Mrs. Tiffany Blake of Chicago, was with Mrs. McCormick at the show on several occasions winning laurels with Miss McCormick was Miss Virginia C. Lodge's daughter of Captain Christopher R. P. Dodge.

Miss Nancy L. Patterson of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, also won laurels in the jumping class. Horse show styles which generally give society in this section the cue for sports togs for the twelve-month to come revealed only raincoats, umbrellas, heavy wraps and the usual trifling clothes.

Nor was there much looking up in the fashion show which greeted the first lady of the land, Mrs. Hoover, when in the later afternoon she went to the Washington cathedral, where she was supposed to stand in the bishop's beautiful garden and receive the distinguished women who attended the laying of the corner stone in the north porch of the cathedral, Mrs. Hoover using the trowel and mortar in the ceremony.

The bishop's garden is one of the most beautiful in this section and in it are rare plants, trees and flowers brought from the Holy Land and from famous cathedrals of the world. The reception was held indoors.

AIRPLANE WIDOWERS FORM ODD CLUB

New York — Women complain about being "gold-widows," but at least two men in this world have license to complain about being "airplane-widows." They are George F. Putnam and Herbert V. Thaden, whose wives are away from home quite a bit breaking air records.

Putnam and Thaden are members of a new club, the name of which is tentatively set as the "49.5 Club," giving the women the accepted 50.5 per cent which they claim as the "other halves."

The club membership will be restricted to those who, like Putnam and Thaden, have wives away from home engaged in the present fad of attempting to set or break air records. Application blanks are to be mailed to those poor males who are in this classification within a short time.

WHY, GEORGE, THAT'S NOT VERY NICE

New York — "You have the most beautiful girls in the world, but their grains are sawdust." So thinks George Schreiber, famous young German artist who is in the United States going series of sketches.

"I think a man should be satisfied to merely gaze at them. They can't talk and they seem so stupid. You have a happy phrase over here, I think. It is 'Beautiful, but dumb.'"

"Over here, too, I have noticed that all one needs to learn of the English language is the laconic 'O. X.' Everybody says it. And the New York girls... Just absorb the wit of Rolls-Royce bodies and silver minds."

UNUSUAL WILL

London — The settlement of Edith Woodcock's will revealed some strange bequests. Road sweepers employed by local authorities were bequeathed $5. Grave diggers employed at her funeral were bequeathed their usual pay. Her residence she left as a home of rest for poor clergymen of England, and to a doctor "who didn't overcharge," she left $500. Her estate was valued at more than $115,000.

well provided with good roads or rapid transit facilities will be at ways desired. The big road building program that is going forward is opening up some splendid opportunities for the purchase of building locations and the construction of permanent homes.

I am opposed to borrowing for speculative purposes, particularly so when business is booming, and values are inflated. On the other hand, I highly endorse borrowing on a legitimate basis for home ownership, especially when you get so much value for the money as you do today.

Business by the Embersonhart registers 28 per cent below normal compared with 6 below at this time a year ago.

FORT DEARBORN BUILDINGS ARE OPENED TODAY

Dedicate Reconstruction Garrison, Scene of Massacre in 1812

Chicago — (P) — A little cluster of buildings that was once nearly all of Chicago, old Fort Dearborn reconstructed on the lake front, was dedicated today as the first exhibit of the 1933 world's fair.

The nucleus of the new city was destroyed after the famous massacre of 1812 had risen again to become a cherished bit of history in the midst of all the brilliant modernism that is to be the "Century of Progress exposition."

In the ambitious plans of the fair management, the reproduction of the garrison erected in 1803 becomes comparatively insignificant. On the architect's model of the completed exposition, the fort is about the smallest thing on the spacious grounds.

But today, with some of the huge modernistic fair buildings under construction and others still figments of the fertile imaginations, old Fort Dearborn held the spotlight alone.

It was built exactly to scale. Logs were shipped from northern Wisconsin and old north woodsmen came down to teach the workmen how to cut and fit them. What little hardware was used was all hand-forged; shingles were made by hand. The builders went to great pains to find imperfect glass, with many bubbles.

Today's speakers, some of them descendants of early settlers, recalled how the spot where the Chicago river bent south to empty into Lake Michigan, was considered a strategic point for a fort from the time the garrison was built in 1803 under the watchful eye of its designer, Captain John Whistler, an old soldier with very definite ideas about defense; how it was destroyed in 1812 after most of the 95 persons who stayed for Detroit in an evacuation had been slain by Indians.

Give Exact Description

Captain Whistler, grandfather of the painter, James Abbott Whistler, made possible the erection of the exact likeness of the fort through his detailed description written soon after it had been completed.

If the pioneer army officer could have returned in person he probably would have noticed first that the new fort was situated about four miles from the old one, on a spot that in 1803 was part of the bottom of Lake Michigan. It stands on made land a mile southeast of the scene of the massacre on the old lake shore.

Some of the world's largest skyscrapers would be seen by Captain Whistler in the district indicated when he wrote "the woodland on the reserve lies on the north and west sides of the garrison" and "a quantity of underwood and shrubby bushes are now cut down and cleared off, all within one-fourth of a mile of the garrison."

Filled in land, public parks and more skyscrapers are on the "south and southwest sides of the garrison" where the officer reported a "prairie of great extent."

What danger Captain Whistler would see today in the hundreds of stone buildings behind which enemies could gather for attack? In 1804 he tore down fence pickets that were "sufficient in thickness to prevent a musket ball from doing execution to an enemy lying behind them" and he considered the houses on the opposite side, of the river "somehow in the way." There were about six then. The stockaded block houses were named Fort Dearborn for the secretary of war who ordered the stronghold built.

FROM ODDS AND ENDS

London — John Parker has had a habit of collecting odds and ends of junk for years. Two years ago he took a large pile of junk that he had gathered in his yard and started building a small locomotive. It is now complete. It weighs 500 pounds and can pull a load of two tons at a speed of 20 miles an hour. An old bedstead furnished the frame for the engine, and the boiler is made from an old oxygen tank.

Old Friends Recall Early Years of David Belasco

San Francisco — (P) — Friends of David Belasco recalled today events of his childhood in that district once known as South of the Slot of Jane-st.

South of the Slot one Jane-st. is no longer in existence, nor is the home at 174 Clara-st. where Belasco, the genius of the stage, was born almost 77 years ago. But the old Lincoln grammar school and two or three of Belasco's schoolmates remain.

At the old school, where he was taught by Mr. Nellie Holbrook, mother of the actor, Holbrook, Blinn, David delivered stirring recitations. Whenever visitors came to the school it was David who was brought forward.

But the eldest of 11 children had more to do than go to school. The large-eyed, good-looking lad sold newspapers on San Francisco streets after school hours and made the rounds of cafes singing and reciting for the patrons.

Clay Greene, the playwright, who wrote for and collaborated with Belasco in many stage successes, remembers those days. Greene, as an older boy at the school, recalls Belasco's intensely dramatic recitations on Friday afternoon. A. M. Robertson, a San Francisco book-seller, also remembers David as a classmate.

MAKE CHANGE IN PLANS FOR PLANE MANEUVERS

Washington — (P) — Aerial maneuvers by 672 army planes may be "bal-lyhoo" to the skeptics but they are serious business to General Douglas MacArthur, chief of staff.

He intends a week of maneuvers and the only change in his plans so far has been to eliminate night flying over New York city next Friday. That change, he said, was occasioned by consideration of the physical well-being of the fliers, not by any protests or pressure.

General MacArthur is supported in this by Assistant Secretary of War Davison, who explained that one factor in the cancellation was that no night flying over other cities was scheduled in the maneuvers. He also said General MacArthur felt it would be too hard on the pilots to have to participate in night maneuvers and then fly over New York again the next day.

Admitting protests by pacifist and Communist organizations, the war department is going steadily ahead with its plans. Important military problems are to be worked out, the general said. The planes are concentrated at Dayton and after an air game involving the hypothetical defense of midwestern cities, a similar problem, on the Atlantic coast, will be worked out.

A MILK TONIC

Whinney — James Shero doesn't go in for milk tonics for the hair as a rule, but he had one forcibly applied here recently when he attempted to get away with $7.50 worth of women's underthings from a store. A milkman saw him run from the store and hid in his wagon. As Shero ran past, the milkman applied the milk to his head—enclosed in a bottle. It had Shero long enough for the police to catch him.

Who's Who
Appleton-Post-Crescent

(This is the sixtieth of a series of articles about members of the staff of the Appleton Post-Crescent. The articles will seek to acquaint readers of this newspaper with those persons as individuals and also will discuss the nature of their work. Members of the staff are presented in the order of their length of service. The sixty-first article will appear Monday.)

An outer door banged, feet clattered up a long stairway, taking the steps one at a time until they reached the top, when with an imperceptible hesitation, two steps were taken and a second door opened and shut in the same moment.

The girl called Christy had arrived. Unwasteful of action, she slid into her chair as she flung her black jacket over the back of it. Christy, never known as Violet, is the city reporter of the Appleton Post-Crescent, who has her repertorial finger in the political pie and all city hall affairs. She is also responsible for reporting church activities and collects news from the public library, hospitals, hotels, doctors, dentists, the Conservatory of Music and Rotary club.

If Christy were to bring all of her friends together they would gather a motley crowd because she is the sort of person who knows nearly everyone. It would be difficult to imagine any other Christy without her friendly, brusque energy. Even as a tow-headed tomboy, hawking newspapers on the streets of Oconto, she began making friends, starting with the village policeman. Christy was born in Oconto and went to grade and high school there.

When she came to Lawrence college, Christy was interested in journalism. She was editor of the Lawrencean, college newspaper, for two years and directed the make-up and headline writing for a year. In other campus activities Christy was the president of Theta Sigma Phi, honorary journalism sorority, a member

LITTLE BUSINESS
DURING BAND MEET

Heavy Traffic Necessitates
Addition of Extra Police Officers

Neenah—Business was practically at a standstill here Friday afternoon during the parade in the state high school band tournament. The parade was scheduled to start from Menasha park at 2:30, but the large number of bands containing a total of more than 8,000 boys and girls did not start marching until after 3 o'clock. Traffic on N. Commercial-st was detoured east on E. Forest-ave so as not to cross Nicolet-blvd, where the parade was to pass on its way to Menasha. Both sides of the boulevard were jammed with the people.

So heavy was the traffic during the evening that extra police were called out. The concerts to have been given in the evening on the specially erected band stand at Shattuck park, failed to materialize. Tired out from the long parade in the afternoon, the students were unable to perform in the evening.

Friday afternoon the Milwaukee Girls' Vocational school band played a short program before the parade.

Applaud Appleton Band
The Appleton high school band was enthusiastically received by its followers as it marched past the reviewing stand, the fourth band in line. The West Division high school of Milwaukee dressed in brilliant red and white uniforms, and the first to execute maneuvers during the parade, and Neenah high school band, appearing only a few minutes later, was cheered by the spectators during its exhibition near the stand.

The Milwaukee Girls' vocational school band was the next to catch the fancy of the crowd, and the Keshena band, an organization made up entirely of Indians, and led by a drum major, dressed in Indian costume, was applauded as it marched past the judges. A drum major, leading the Custer high school band of Milwaukee was the next to attract particular attention, twirling his baton in front and behind of him and whirling it into the air, as he directed the crack Milwaukee unit.

Menasha Players Cheered
Marching with machine like precision, the Menasha high school band, exhibited the championship caliche that earned first place at the 1930 tournament in Milwaukee. With every hand foot and knee moving in almost perfect coordination, the band was cheered during its entire exhibition, while police and legionnaires worked to keep the crowd from moving too close to the players.

The St. Mary high school band of Menasha, following the Milwaukee band, was cheered as it marched past the judges. The band's platoon of the crowd with a series of drills and maneuvers near the judges stand, while the highly touted St. Catherine band of Racine justified its reputation for precision and perfection of timing. The Wauwatosa band, followed the Two Rivers organization, to complete a parade that may not be duplicated in Wisconsin for a long time.

Form Near Boulevard
The bands formed for the parade on street leading to Nicolet-blvd, and marched west to S. A. Cook armory, across the Washington and Taycoast bridges, and east on Main-st past the reviewing stand; then north on Milwaukee-st to Second-st, west on Second-st to Taycoast, and north on Taycoast to the Butte des Morts athletic field.

The mass band concert, to have been staged at the Butte des Morts field following the parade, was cancelled when marching continued until after 6:30. The entire tournament delegation was to have witnessed in the presentation of "Salute Wisconsin," a march written by O. J. Kraushaar of Waupun.

Your Birthday

WHAT TOMORROW MEANS TO YOU

"TAURUS."
If May 17th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10:45 a. m. to noon, from 2:10 p. m. to 4 p. m., and from 7:15 p. m. to 9:30 p. m. The danger hours are from 8:10 to 10 a. m. and from 5 p. m. to 6:30 p. m.

The planetary aspects of May 17th denote ideal conditions for the observances and recreations of a Sunday. The atmosphere will be charged with a pleasant optimism, and there will not be sensed any great urge to work. You can sit back and dream of the coming week's successes.

Children born on May 17th will be impregnated with wanderlust, and most of them, if given the chance, will seek lives of adventure. They will never be satisfied with the humdrum. Not very amenable to tuition, they will be capable and courageous, both mentally and physically.

Even on May 17th, your outstanding characteristics are perseverance, tenacity, pride and conscientiousness. Fired by great ambition, you tackle a job with vim, and work without watching the clock. Once, too, you have "dug in," you never quit. Your pride arises from what you have been able to accomplish. In all that you do, you never hit below the belt, and always endeavor to live on a high plane of duty.

Although you never carry your heart on your sleeve, you do, at times, when alone, suffer from attacks of gloom and pessimism. These, however, instead of forcing you to give up, seem only to clothe you with renewed vigor and fresh determination. You have very little use for those "who toll not and neither do they spin," and, when brought into enforced contact with them, you are apt to become unnecessarily bitter and caustic.

Your disposition is usually a kind one, and you are so occupied in attending to your own business that you have no time to meddle in that of others. In your home life, you are very happy, as you always are considerate and unselfish, although even here it worries you to see any member of your family wasting time.

DRIVER ARRESTED
IN OHIO SLAYING

Police Say Suspect Confesses He Drove Car Used in Killing

Massillon, Ohio—(P)—A man who police said admitted driving the automobile used by the slayer of Jim Speers 38, long a figure in Canton's underworld upheavals, was in custody today and the arrest of the alleged killer was expected hourly.

George Gotsoff, Massillon wrestler, gave himself up last night and according to Police Inspector Jack Burwell, declared George Tatallinos, described as an underworld character, killed Speers in self-defense.

Speers, whose name was coupled with the investigation of the slaying of Don J. Mellett, Canton vice-council editor, four years ago, was shot to death as he sat in a coffee house at Columbia Heights, a suburb, late yesterday. He was mentioned as a tipster for Mellett and since then the underworld regarded him as a carrier of information to federal prohibition agents, police over $175 in "protection" money said.

The killing followed an argument over $175 in "protection" money which Speers demanded from Tatallinos, Gotsoff said. Speers made a move as if reaching for his gun and the shooting followed. Gotsoff said he then drove Tatallinos as far as Canal Dover, southeast of here, and was instructed to return and surrender. Tatallinos indicated he might surrender later and plead self-defense, Inspector Burwell said he was told by Gotsoff.

BELIEVE STEAMSHIP
TRYING TO RECOVER
TREASURE FROM SEA

Sunderland, England—(P)—The 296-ton steamship Reclamer sailed at dawn today on a mission known only to her owners, but generally believed to be a treasure hunt.

The customary hall from harbor guards of "whereabouts" brought only the reply "to sea." She sailed under sealed orders deliverable to the captain after reaching the North sea, bearing a picked crew, provisions for five months and four expert divers with modern apparatus.

The stowing away of deep sea gear led inhabitants of this northern English town to reason that the Reclamer was bound on a quest for vessels sunk during the war. It was first suggested she was seeking an Egyptian treasure ship off the coast of France but this met neither with confirmation nor denial from her owners.

General opinion was that the Reclamer planned to seek the liner Tubantia which was sunk in the North sea, presumably by a German submarine unaware that she was carrying $5,000,000 to Buenos Aires to bolster Germany's credit in South America. Rumor said the bullion was packed in Dutch caskets.

Milwaukee—(P)—Robert Alston, 39, shot and fatally wounded himself yesterday. His wife said he was dependent because of inability to find employment.

Director Says Women Are Easier To Handle

BY JESSIE HENDERSON

Hollywood—(CPA)—You know how flighty women are? So thick headed about getting a new idea? Perfectly determined to do things their own way, no matter what a man tells them? All right. All right. Wesley Ruggles, director of Cimarron, says women are easier to direct than men.

"Women," said Ruggles today, "are more pliant in their emotions. Maybe they have a greater capacity for emotion. Men are more crystallized, not so flexible."

With a theory like this in mind, Ruggles will make a picture for R-K-O with a leading woman less than 20 years old and a leading woman whom fame has not yet brushed with a wing tip. The picture, at present called "Are These Our Children," with youth.

"All the actors will be young," Ruggles explained, "not one of them over 20. The heroine must have an attitude for her role but no experience. Beauty doesn't matter. All in-

GIVE CHILD Plenty Of Sun And Air

BY ANGELO PATRI
The best medical care in the world will not keep a child in health if he has no sunshine and no fresh air. Those two forces are essential to the healthy growth of children. Until they are provided in sky high, sky wide quantities there is little use in doctoring and dieting.

"I would do anything to make my child well. What can I do? I have been to the best doctors, what can I do? They want me to take the child to the country and let him live in the open air. I'd have to move. I can't move. Our business, our lives are here. What can I do?"

Move. There is a price for everything, a high price for a child's health, perhaps, but that is as you look at it. If your child is not getting his full share of sunshine and fresh air he will have to have them or remain an invalid for the time he can hold out against unhappy conditions. If a child has rickets he must play in the open air in the warm sunshine. But he is to get his sunshine under the direction of a competent physician. Because you read here that sunshine is essential to the growth of your child you are not to strip him and set him in the warm sunshine for a sunbath. That is very dangerous. You are to consult a competent person who will tell you how and when and why to use sunshine.

Sun baths must be given with a great discretion and care. We begin by exposing a little of the body to the sun and gradually increasing the area of skin and the length of the exposure to the sunshine. Only an expert can give the directions for such treatment. So be careful.

In bad weather the children ought to have a screened porch for a play space. It will not do to send them out to hold their own against the wind and rain. They use so much energy in fighting the elements that they have no rest for play. Fresh air does not mean exposure to hardships. It means that the children have a chance to breathe outside air, clean wholesome, pure air. The more sunshine in the air the better.

Dress the children according to the need. When the weather moderates change the costume. There is nothing quite so unattractive as dressing children according to the calendar and ignoring the weather conditions and the state of the child's health. Some people think that a sweater is a charm against colds. It isn't a charm at all, just a garment to be worn as needed. It is not always needed.

Nights brings its own troubles in this matter of dress. Some folk think that a right smart lace drape from the northern zone is fine. Others open a window half an inch at the bottom. Others close everything tight. Open the windows top and bottom, avoid a draught, put a blanket under the child as well as him. Sunshine, fresh air in right proportion are what the child needs. See that he gets them.

OT very well. We met abroad. He's an architect, too, you know. But he has rather an interesting wife."

"A wife?" Sue asked blankly.

"Of course. Most men have. Any one who is personable and reasonable doesn't have much chance of escaping women. But he seems so much younger than Marion. Not at all. But she's the very dark, exotic type, who always knows what she wants and gets it. But she's sweet but, oh, I guess you could say he's the kind of man who goes rather well if you just let him for dessert, but if you had m' for several courses I don't believe he would have vitamins enough."

"Grace, then you're sure he's married? He's been alone ever since he met her and he's giving Sarah a real grand rush."

"Yes?" Grace was silent for a few seconds. "Does Sarah still like Ted? I'm not afraid to tell me. You know myself had sort of a hopeless infatuation for a while on a certain young man. Wouldn't our great and mothers love to hear us discussing heart wounds as though they were cucumber pickle recipes? I mean, wouldn't you like to have the doughnut feeling not to be sitting anywhere in the most important thing in the world. Girls who have the capacity to give a man the emotion he needs are the ones who are to suffer the most. The others aren't. Things aren't important enough to get them to count one way or the other. But Phil's married. You talk as though girls do the rushing, and I don't like to feel at all way about it. Sue put it, rushing her dark hair away from her face with impatient hands. "It sounds as though men never have any lasting affection but go to the set lighter."

"But don't you think that girls might certain men out and smile at them a little more sweetly than they do at the rest of the brotherhood, just as men do with girls?" Grace asked. "It's an age-old trick. Only girls have to disguise it and men don't. It's a man's world and always will be. But if there isn't love... mutual attraction on both sides... the marriage won't last. Oh, maybe there won't be a divorce, but there won't be happiness. But why in the world am I lecturing like this? You don't need it."

"Anyway, Sarah doesn't know at Phil Banning's married. I know it. When a man's lonesome and a girl's disappointed it's just natural that they should be more or less friendly, anyway. And as for his friends, I guess married people give each other special privileges when they are away for a while," Sue said, trying to justify Sarah.

"Why Sue Merryman, what in the world are you talking about?" Grace asked. "I used to get off foolish isom like that. But you never did. At now I know how silly it was. Use, when you love your husband, can't you want him to be the insinuation of anybody else's smile while you are away, and you don't love two raps about anyone else. I don't mean you shouldn't know other men if you are a girl, or other girls if you are a man. You should. It'll be lopsided if you don't. And someone meets me downtown and ants me to go to lunch, that's perfectly all right. So long as Jimmy and I know that other people don't matter, we needn't worry. It's when they do—I'm contradicting myself I around. But blame it on my general excitement. Why, here comes my. He didn't know I was here!" Her voice was puzzled.

WE WOMEN

By Virginia Vance

SHOULD WOMAN PROPOSE?

Dear Virginia Vance: Aren't there me occasions on which a girl may fall a man that she cares for him? I am deeply in love but the man I love isn't seem interested. I have a cousin older than myself who is popular and has dozens of men in love with her. She says that whenever she is in love with a man she simply lets him and that always makes him fall for her. I don't see why this should be wrong.

MURIEL: Maybe your cousin has more self-confidence and assurance than the average girl, but she's a rare specimen if she can run around telling on that she loves them, and never being disappointed or disillusioned. Naturally if a popular good looking girl flatters a man by declaring her love for him, he's apt to take some interest. The male is a susceptible creature and so that your cousin may have a great deal of superficial success, one way or the other. Whether or not she inspires more than a sentimental bourn of gratitude and flattered vanity, is the question.

If you're really in love, you aren't anxious merely to attract superficially the object of your affection. You want him either to love you truly or not at all. You aren't satisfied with it if way he's just a flake. You can't really believe he's honest with you, when but for your own temerity, a love affair would never have started. No, in the end, you won't be satisfied, all he's got around to the old-fashioned method of winning.

So that, in the long run, these unkind avowals of maidenly passion do very little good. If you actually attract your hero by your declaration of love, there will come a time when you question the quantity and quality of his feeling. You'll begin to ask in reproachfully why it was you had to make the first move. You'll tell him and yourself that you really believe he's honest with you, when but for your own temerity, a love affair would never have started. No, in the end, you won't be satisfied, all he's got around to the old-fashioned method of winning.

ning you all over again with his own avowals of undying affection.

So, you see, the system doesn't work, in the case of true love. And certainly it's not a good idea to give yourself the reputation of being rather a man-chaser, by openly declaring your love, when you're not sure that you're actually in love. There's no point in that particular sort of game at all. So don't follow your cousin's dashing example. Stick to the old rules. You have nothing to gain by reversing the usual procedure.

B. LONELY: Try not to be too gloomy and depressed about the change in your life. It is possible that your child's death had such a profound effect on your husband that he hardly noticed what was going on around him, and entirely forgot you as a real personality.

Now you are naturally hurt and grief-stricken, and this does nothing to restore him to normal. You find yourself in a dreary atmosphere. You're up against a more difficult problem than you have ever had to face before, and it will take a lot of courage for you to show a more cheerful face, and happy spirit.

But perhaps just that sort of change in yourself will bring him back to normal. Perhaps he's lived with his own thoughts and fears and misery so long that he cannot respond to your grief or hurt. If you attempted to take even more of the burden on your own shoulders and to lighten his grief as best you can, you might have a magic effect on him. Anyway, it's worth trying. Just push away all the ugly thoughts, and all the heart-break, square your shoulders, and make up your mind to be cheerful, in order to help the man of the house.

J. G.: Parties shouldn't really mean more to you than your own home so don't feel yourself so badly used when you're asked to stop them for the sake of economy. Lots of people are having to cut out bare necessities these days. Be thankful that you're not called on to sacrifice anything more serious than an occasional joyride.

CONSTANT CARE WILL INSURE SWEET BREATH

By ALICIA HART

One of the sweetest things about a baby is its fresh, clean breath.

Once we are grown, alas, our breath often seems to change!

However, you can have a sweet breath, if you make up your mind to it and go about it in the right way.

There are three outstanding obstacles to good breath. First, bad teeth, gums or tonsils. Second, bad digestion or other bodily disorders. Third, lack of cleanliness.

All three should be listed and looked into. If your teeth are bad (and most folks over 25 need dental care) have them filled, bridged, pulled or whatever is needed. If your bad breath comes from the stomach, don't waste time using mouth washes. They will get you nowhere for longer than minute. Consult your physician and do whatever is needed, dieting, resting, undergoing a general overhauling or whatever else he recommends.

Then, if your teeth are good, your digestion excellent and yourself in good condition and still you have a stale breath, it is your own fault and you should start immediately to rectify it.

Daily cleaning your teeth isn't enough. You should wash them morning and night and after lunch. You can keep a toothbrush in your desk along with your soap, towel and make-up. You can use a dental paste or powder or you can use soda and salt. It makes little difference. The washing is the thing.

Upon rising, take a glass of hot water and upon retiring do the same. Nothing is more effective in this good breath campaign than the lemon night cap I have spoken of before. A lemon night cap consists of taking the juice of a half lemon in warm water, not hot; and if you double this by taking the same in the mornings, it is very effective.

Many meticulous people use a tongue scraper mornings before they use their mouth wash. Any drug store carries them. In addition to using your toothbrush, you should use dental floss between your teeth to insure perfect cleanliness. After this care, rinse your mouth with an antiseptic mouth wash, or a glass of hot salt water, gargling a little as you do it.

Of course, the only way to know just what your own breath is like is to have a "best friend" who will tell you. But, lacking that, take every precaution to insure good breath and the chances are in your favor.

LOUVRE TO EXHIBIT "HOLY GRAIL" OF U. S.

New York—"The goal which legendary Galahad sought for years, the 'Holy Grail,' the cup from which Christ is said to have supped at the Last Supper, has been in the United States for years, but few have known it. Now it is on its way to be placed on exhibit at the Louvre, in Paris.

"The Great Chalice of Antioch," said to be the Holy Grail, was dug from ruins of that Syrian city by Arabs and finally, after years of being stolen and transferred between art gatherers, fell into the hands of Fahim Kouchakli of this city. It was shipped here in 1914.

"The chalice stands about eight inches high, consists of a silver cup of silver, crudely made, encased in an intricately sculptured sheathing of silver and gold leaf. In the sculptured silver, Christ, a youthful figure, is in the midst of His disciples.

IMPORTANCE OF CARRYING N. Y. BOTHERS GROUP

Roosevelt's Status With Tammany Also Keeps Worrying Democrats

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington.—The extreme importance of carrying New York in the next presidential election, Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt's relations with Tammany and the question whether Roosevelt could be nominated and elected in the face of Tammany opposition are becoming political topics of increasing importance even though the Republican and Democratic national committees have been confining themselves to calling each others' chairmen liars.

As things stand today it appears that Roosevelt, should he defy Tammany, could win the Democratic nomination despite his party's archaic two-thirds rule and the fact that politicians in some other northern states probably would combine with Tammany in an effort to stop him. If this is true and remains true, the question whether Roosevelt could carry New York in the election is then of most vital moment.

Non-Without N. Y. It has become almost axiomatic among political experts that a presidential election can't be won without New York's 45 electoral votes. If the Democrats take the state in 1932 it will be the first time in 40 years, except for 1912, when the Republicans split. Wilson was elected in 1916 without New York, but only by carrying such seemingly Republican states as California, Colorado, Idaho, Kansas, Nebraska, New Hampshire, North Dakota and Wyoming.

Reports from New York are that Tammany is definitely sour on Roosevelt regardless of what he may do about New York City's scandals. Even if he desists, he could hardly conciliate Tammany without conceding so much as to ruin himself with the rest of the country. So he probably will be forced to let the nature of the Tiger take its course, capitalize Tammany enmity for all it is worth and risk a knifing in New York City a year from next November if he is nominated.

Cleveland Beat "Tiger" Tammany, of course, has been accused of knifing nearly every Democratic presidential candidate—even Al Smith—and sometimes, at least, the charge has been true. But ordinarily the party depends on Tammany to get a New York vote big enough to overcome the usual Republican majorities upstate.

Nearly all discussions of the Roosevelt-Tammany situation hark back to the days when Grover Cleveland defied Tammany and yet got his party and the country behind him. There are certain obvious parallels and other great differences in Cleveland's experience which may well be sketched.

Cleveland ran and was elected first in 1884 and Tammany treachery would have then lost him the presidency except for a curious combination of factors and events. Governor of New York, as Roosevelt is, he faced a hostile Tammany and made no attempt to conciliate it. Tammany delegates were forced to have their ballots cast for him, however, under the unit rule—something which now seems unlikely to be repeated in 1932.

Four Important Factors Cleveland won New York, which then meant the presidency for him, by 1149 votes. Because of Tammany's opposition it seems likely that he could not have won had a single one of the following factors been absent:

- 1—The famous "Rum, Romanism and Rebellion" boner pulled by a clergyman at a reception to his opponent, James G. Blaine.
- 2—The large "mugwump" or independent vote withheld from Blaine.
- 3—The hatred of Roscoe Conkling, an important Republican leader, for Blaine.
- 4—A Prohibitionist vote of 25,000, most of it normally Republican.

All these things seem to have been worth more than 600 votes apiece to Cleveland and possibly so were others, such as the Long Island City frauds where votes cast for Ben Butler were allegedly counted for Cleveland.

Tammany could not block Cleveland's nomination in 1888, but it was commonly believed to have encompassed his defeat in the election by gubernatorial candidate, David B. Hill. Benjamin Harrison took the state by 13,000 votes; a switch of half as many would have given Cleveland the state and the election, nominate Hill over Cleveland and was overwhelmingly defeated, although New York's delegation voted solidly against Cleveland. During the campaign a meeting between Cleveland and Tammany leaders was arranged.

When the latter demanded pledges Cleveland said he would be damned if he would make any and promised to reveal their demands to the country. Boss Croker then withdrew the demands and whether or not Tammany worked for Cleveland he carried the state by 45,000. That was the last time the Democrats carried the Empire State in a two-party fight. But they would have won the election without it, for it was a big Democratic year.

Some Democrats profess to see a parallel between 1932 and that election 40 years ago, pointing to President Harrison's lack of popularity and the widespread resentment that year at a Republican high tariff.

SENIOR CLASS WILL START SCHOLARSHIP

The graduating class at Lawrence college has decided that instead of leaving a group of pictures or something similar as a class memorial, it will start a fund for the establishment of a senior scholarship fund for the use of worthy senior students in years to come.

Allan Arthur, chairman of the committee in charge of choosing a memorial, said that the senior class this year is establishing the scholarship fund with the hope that the classes to follow will add to the fund and make it a really substantial amount.

JEWISH PEOPLE OBSERVE FEAST NEXT WEEKEND

Shabuoth to Be Celebrated With Services in Synagogue

Shabuoth, the feast of Pentecost, will be observed by local Jewish people next Friday and Saturday. Services will be held in the Synagogue at 7 o'clock Thursday and Friday evenings, and from 9 to 12 o'clock Friday and Saturday mornings. No services will be held by the Reformed Jews, as Shabuoth will be observed in connection with the confirmation service on Sunday.

Shabuoth is one of the three "pilgrim festivals" when Jews went to the temple in Jerusalem, this time to bring the first fruits of their fields from the early harvest. Shabuoth, or "Feast of Weeks," occurs seven weeks after the second day of the Passover, thus giving the festival its name of Pentecost, meaning fifty.

The festival also bears the name of "Zeman Matan Torasenu," the day of the giving of the law, for when the agricultural significance of the day was lost, the medieval spiritual leaders associated the day with the giving of the ten commandments in the Sinaiic desert.

The religious teachers pointed out that the law was given in the desert rather than in Palestine as a symbol of the universality of the law. Each generation was to accept the Torah for itself and draw inspiration from it. Accordingly, boys and girls are inducted into the faith at this season of the year.

The house of worship on Shabuoth is decorated with green branches and flowers to symbolize the agricultural background of the festival. The dual aspect of the day is ritualized by appropriate services to which are added the recitation of the ten commandments and the reading of the Book of Ruth.

ORCHESTRA LEADER SAYS HE DOESN'T KNOW MUSIC

New York —(AP)—Bert Lown, radio orchestra leader, has little difficulty in producing tunes the listeners like, but admits that he doesn't know "the first thing" about music. "I can't even play by ear," he adds, then clarifies the situation by saying he uses a sort of "plus and minus" system.

It came about this way: As a boy he would watch pianists and note the course of their fingers, recording their movements by what he refers to as "arithmetic." With one key designated as "one" those on either side are numbered in order. Plus numbers go up the scale, and minus downward.

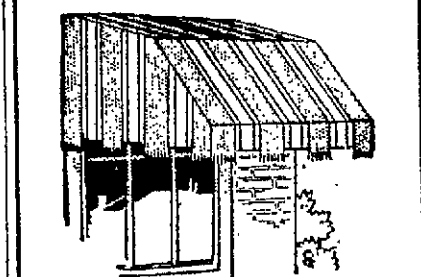

Lown still uses this substitute for the musical score.

answers every REFRIGERATOR want

BUYERS WANT

LOW COST—No refrigerator within or near the Majestic price range can compare with it. You will pay more for one of equal size with only a few of Majestic's advantages.

ECONOMY—Small operating cost—every one wants that—and Majestic is the answer. The free swinging $3\frac{1}{2}$ inch door seals the cold in and enables the powerful rotary motor—an exclusive Majestic patent—to operate less frequently at a saving in current.

CONVENIENCE—Majestic has some thirty outstanding features, each designed for convenience and greater efficiency. Ten thousand women were interviewed and the sum total of their ideas of refrigerator convenience have been incorporated in the design of this marvelous new Majestic.

BEAUTY—For sheer beauty of design and finish Majestic is surpassed by none. The flat top, which can be used as an extra pantry shelf, is free from all outside attachments or additions to mar its smooth exterior, to catch dust or make it hard to clean, while high legs give ample broom room beneath. The snow-white, non-chipping Pyroxalin lacquer finish makes its beauty a joy forever.

NO REPAIR WORK IN HOME—No dirt, noise, annoyance or confusion from repairs in your kitchen if you own a Majestic. For nothing can happen to the Majestic that would require more than the exchange of the unit—done in five minutes.

DEPENDABILITY—Majestic has no belts, gears or stuffing boxes to cause trouble and expense. The rotary type compressor of Majestic is built with the accuracy of a fine watch and should give a lifetime of dependable performance.

SEALED HERMETICALLY—Every vital part, every working part of the Majestic is hermetically sealed forever in a bath of oil, which never needs replenishing. No dust, dirt, rust or erosion can harm them.

A 3-YEAR GUARANTEE—Given with every Majestic, although unnecessary. For laboratory tests—equal to twenty years' service—show no breakdown or wearing out of the powerful Majestic compressor. Majestic is built to render a lifetime of efficient service.

COMPACTNESS—The space you must provide for refrigerators in new buildings or old must be considered. Majestic is compactness itself, while the ample food compartment with its new features of arrangement permits the use of the minimum size models.

A RELIABLE MANUFACTURER—When you install a refrigerator it should be for all time. You will want to know the maker will be in business through years to come.

The Grigsby-Grunow Company offers ample assurance of this by their success in the radio field and the further fact that today they own and operate what experts claim to be the largest and most efficient refrigerator manufacturing plant in the world.

TREAT CITY STREETS WITH CALCIUM SURFACE

New London—A number of New London's paved streets in the vicinity of the high school were improved with calcium chloride this week.

Two men were arrested on Tuesday for the use of a sawed-off shotgun in the treatment of a man who was being treated earlier in the week and with a new shipment of mixture. Dorst was improved on Friday. Dorst is not thickly populated, these being much property owned by the county and many vacant lots. This street was treated without cost to the residents.

FIRE DEPARTMENT IS CALLED OUT TWICE

New London—The fire department was called out twice Friday morning, both alarms being for the second ward. The first fire resulted when a spark from the fire used in heating a tar pot used by the city street department dropped into the pot, igniting the mixture. Gentlemen—We, your Committee beg leave to report as follows.
 We find the problem of building an addition to the present Courthouse very difficult, such an addition would be only a temporary solution and would be un-suitably from an architectural stand point.
 We believe that the present building could be used until such time as the County would be financially able to build a new Courthouse.
 However, as your Honorable Body has asked this committee to submit a solution of this problem, we offer the following for your consideration, without recommendation.
 An addition extending south from the present building, such addition to be 52' wide and 50' long and one story in height, per plan No. 5 submitted herewith. If this plan is adopted, your Committee would recommend that the space west of this addition be utilized as a parking space

NEWSPAPERMEN AID IN MAKING PICTURE

Richard Barthelmess Plays Part of Reporter in "Finger Points"

A nose for news and an appetite for trouble are prime requisites for a police reporter. His is the most interesting and the most dangerous run on a newspaper.

He knows the seamy side of life and what he tells the public is only a fraction of the unpleasant things he finds out.

The skeleton in everyman's closet is his legitimate objective.

It is a police reporter that Richard Barthelmess portrays in his new picture, "The Finger Points." In the big city he becomes a person of power and importance. He is a dangerous enemy and a valued friend.

That power proves a mighty temptation for the ambitious boy—a temptation which is faced sometime by every man assigned to such duty.

Newspaper history is full of famous police reporters. They are the district attorneys, the judges, the editors, the novelists of today but some of them are still police reporters, with story material enough in their minds to fill a library. There is a strange experience and a job peculiarly rich in contact with human nature.

Generally, however, it is a job for youth, for reckless courage and defiant perseverance.

John Monk Saunders, who wrote the story, knows about it from actual experience. Barthelmess knew about it also from Jim Mitchell, one of Hollywood's best known newspaper men and a close personal friend of many film celebrities. Other information came from John Barrymore, who has also spent early years on New York newspapers, much in the company of Frank Butler, one of the most famous of all old time reporters.

"The Finger Points," brings newspaper history down to date on the screen. It opens to-night at the Appleton Theatre on the mid-night show and can be viewed on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

BOTH this Cord and New Iso-Vis made excellent records on the Indianapolis Speedway. In 24 days, it romped through 9,000 miles. See this car at your Cord dealer. It is now out gathering data on the road.

This Cord was used in the 13-car lubrication study conducted by the Contest Board of the American Automobile Association. Read its unbiased report on New Iso-Vis. That's the kind of lubrication that gives real protection.

Prominent among the thousands of concerns using large fleets of Chevrolets are many of the leaders of American industry. In fact, 73 outstanding business firms have purchased a total of 27,605 Chevrolet cars and trucks.

The reason for this preference lies in the unexcelled economy of Chevrolet cars and trucks, as proved by official cost records. These records show that 20 miles to the gallon is a common occurrence among Chevrolet cars. That oil expense is extremely low. That Chevrolet cars and trucks require only a minimum of service attention. That they give satisfactory low-cost service over exceptionally long periods of time.

Naturally, a car with such a fine record of economy represents an extremely wise investment for any buyer! Especially so, when you consider the many advantages that Chevrolet offers above and beyond economical operation. BEERY PLAYS PART OF KILLER IN FILM

Operations of Underworld Revealed in "The Secret Six"

Inner secrets of city politics, the working of the underworld and the astounding story of the rise of a gang ruler are the engrossing elements of "The Secret Six," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's huge drama of modern American life, which opens at the Fox Theatre, Monday.

Wallace Beery, hero of the "Big House" and "Min and Bill," plays the central character, and in fact, is one of the triumvirate responsible for the picture, as well as the former life, for George Hill, director and Frances Marion, author, produced all of them.

Beery, as the swashbuckling, roystering but sinister Scorpio, has a role that affords him the most of whimsical humor and menace that marks his best work. The finale of the picture is a heart-grIPPING scene in the condemned cells, an episode which visibly moved last night's audience.

"The Secret Six" was built on actual happenings in many American cities, and the potent force behind it is that it rings absolutely true. It has a comedy, love interest, grim battles, but through it all the law reaches to win in the end. Not essentially a "gangster picture," it bears all the secrets of gangland, as well as the machinations of politicians and the underlying causes for modern municipal conditions.

Beery as Scorpio is one of a notable cast; in fact, one of the biggest casts ever assembled in a single picture, and many scenes hundreds of people appear. With them the director painted his picture of American life in broad, deft strokes.

There is Lewis Stone, as the sinister legal mind behind the underworld's reign of terror; Marjorie Hambeau, as the ill-starred Penelope; John Mack Brown and Clark Gable, as the two reporters, have the love interest with blonde Jean Harlow. Paul Hurst, as the corrupt mayor; De Witt Jennings, as the fearless police officer who dies unearthing the plot of Scorpio; John Miljan as the suave but deadly Colingo—these are among the outstanding figures in the mighty drama.

The gangster funeral, the sensational murder trial, the formation of the vigilantes, the war on the streets, the stronghold, the corrupt election, and the grim execution chamber scenes are among the highlights of this astounding production.

FOUR KNIGHT HAWKS ON VAUDEVILLE BILL

Radio Artists to Be Seen on Stage in City Over Week-End

END

The Fox theatre, Appleton's palace of entertainment, again offers its patrons a de luxe screen and stage program tomorrow afternoon and evening. On the stage you will be entertained by a clever trio in a singing and dance act—Howard, Sidelle and Bernice. They will give you the synopsis of "Varieties of the Dance." The next number to be featured for you on the stage is Clifton and Brent in their number "Rubbernecks and Rubberlegs," a comedy song, dance and musical act. After this number when the stage curtains open again the four Knight Hawks will make their initial appearance on the stage in Appleton. The four Knight Hawks are known the world over to all radio listeners. You too must have heard them over the air at some time or other, entertaining hundreds of radio fans with their instrumental harmony and singing numbers. If you have heard them over your radio and have liked their entertainment, then do not miss coming to the Fox theatre tomorrow, and show the boys appreciation when they make their personal appearance on the stage in their number called "A Harmony Hallelujah." Last but not least mention the fact made of the overture to be played by Mickey and his Commodore Orchestra with Marshall Tootley at the night Fox organ. Marshall Tootley, Appleton's own boy organist has accumulated state wide fame since he began his noon day organ program, broadcasting direct from the Fox theatre over radio station, WFRV. On Sundays he is unable to entertain his listeners on the air, therefore he asks each one of his listeners to come and enjoy an afternoon of entertainment with him at the theatre. If you all come, and promise to sing real loud, Marshall will feature for you a song slide novelty called "The Song Clock."

On the screen you will be entertained by Ramon Novarro in his new talkie of brilliant acting "Daybreak" with Helen Chandler, Jean Hersholt and Glenn Tryon.

MISS CHATTERTON ENACTS TWO ROLES

Actress Stars in "The Right to Love" at Elite Theatre

"America's own 'duse of drama,'" at least insofar as the "talkies" are concerned, endows the screen at the Elite Theatre Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday with a new emotional triumph that will elicit all the nice things any photoplay audience can say. If there's more to be said after those... outstanding... productions, "Madame X," "Sarah and Son," "Anybody's Woman."

The duse, of course, is Ruth Chatterton; the drama, "The Right to Love," which Richard Wallace has dramatized in dialog for Paramount from the Eugene O'Neill book, "Brook Evans." And the whole event—which should not be missed

MARY PICKFORD IN NEW, CHARMING ROLE

Plays Part of Delightful Comedienne in "Kiki" at Appleton Theatre

A suppressed, a new, a roguish Mary Pickford comes to life in the title role of "KIKI" which opens at the Warner's Appleton Theatre for three days beginning Wednesday of next week.

Kiki is the type of part Mary Pickford has always longed to play. Few people knew it. Only her most intimate friends were aware of the mischievous bent that urged the star to play the madcap, the harum-scarum rascal personified by Kiki. Millions remember and love her for the superb performances she gave in "Tess of the Storm Country," "My Best Girl" and the exquisite little girl portrayals in an unbroken chain of successes that established her as "America's Sweetheart."

But with talking pictures, Mary Pickford has undergone a metamorphosis. She has grown up. She's a young woman who looks at things from the adult point of view. Her characters live for admiration, coquetry, romance. "Coquette" was the first of this new series. Here was the little innocent with the golden curls in an entirely different characterization. There was a pertness that was charming, roughness that was quite irresistible, and a flirtatious allure that at once made Miss Pickford one of the outstanding romantic figures of the screen.

"Kiki" is a combination of the new Mary Pickford and the one of the silent days. She is an adorable little spitfire, a creature of moods, caprices, emotions. There still remains the childhood dependence and trust, the elfin joy that characterizes the tiniest pleasure.

Uncle Sam's first pearl farm is located in Kaneohe Bay, Island of Oahu, in the Hawaiian group.

GEORGE O'BRIEN HAS NEW WESTERN ROLE

George O'Brien, who, in his recent pictures, has portrayed the role of an outlaw, by circumstance rather than by choice, leads a new role in "Fair Warning," Fox movie-tonic romantic thriller of the wide open spaces.

The story, set in the farm lands of the Middle West, tells of a girl whose secret love tries to engage a tragic sacrifice of happiness in later years, a state of affairs she determines will not be the heritage of her daughter. The manner in which love finds a way, through two generations of straight-jacketed repression, is convincingly narrated, and leads to a most surprising climax.

Paul Lukas, David Manners, George Baxter, Irving Pichel, Veda Buckland and Oscar Apfel, players of experience and understanding, handle their assignments in fine harmony with the Chatterton roles. Zoe Akins adapted the screen play.

Now He's a Newspaper Reporter

Which opens tonight at the Warner's Appleton Midnight show and Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

"DESERT RATS" SEEN IN "WOMAN HUNGRY"

A half dozen old-timers known as desert rats were engaged to appear in many scenes of "Woman Hungry," the First National Vitaphone special, in color, which comes to the Appleton Theatre Saturday next. They drifted to the location where the picture was being filmed from Death Valley, and Director Clarence Badger immediately hired them because they lent atmosphere to the production. Their week's work gave them a grub stake to go back hunting gold in the Valley.

Mad Pursuit
BY JESSIE DOUGLAS FOX

SYNOPSIS: Nora Lake finds sympathy and understanding at the home of her Aunt Emily after the suicide of her husband, Nicholas Thayer. The girl, conscious of the reproaches of Nicholas' brother, Jonathan, and his stepmother, Damon accepts their invitation to live with them. But the settling of her cousin Francis' child delays Nora's departure for the Thayer place and when Damon and her father leave on a vacation, Nora fears she is doomed to remain in her aunt's middle-class household. However, Jon, who alternately attracts and repels her, repeats the invitation. Meanwhile the penniless Nora has started work in the office with Francis, concerning whose cough young Dr. More is solicitous. Suddenly Nora's father, whom she had let in Italy, appears.

Chapter 22
BENEATH LAY'S MASK
JULIAN LAKE took off his hat with a flourish as Nora opened the door.
"Julian!" she cried half in dismay and half in delight as she hugged him.
"I had the devil of a time finding this place!" he cried, "and what a dingy hole in the wall!"
On the steps beside him were a great collection of canvases that he lifted carefully inside as he went on. "Have my relatives sunk so low?"
"Julian, Julian," she said, trying to quiet him. "They'll hear you!"
But his voice filled all the little spaces of the house with its mellow timbre.
He eyed Nora comically. "What have they done to you, my girl? You look respectable by gad! One of the smug bourgeoisie! Where are they, my splendid family?"
Julian asked, and as Nora made a gesture toward the backstairs, he ran gaily down.
As they crowded about him Nora saw how he dominated the scene. From brought back the carcass of the chicken, Halie hobbled in with a plate of biscuits. Nora poured a cup of coffee. Julian began to tell them with relish of his trip home.
"Do you remember the Marchese Baldassare, Nora? A charming old woman with a very warm heart. She insisted on paying my passage home. Steerage to be sure. And I hadn't a sou after the passage was paid. On the boat I got up a concert for disabled mariners and passed the hat around myself. I did very well." Julian ended, grinning delightedly.
Julian demolished the chicken, finished the last biscuit on the plate, drank the last drop of coffee, continuing as he did so to tell stories that had the probability of Baron Munchausen's.
"But now," said Julian with sudden seriousness, "I have a plan that is to bring us fame and fortune! His eyes rested speculatively on Jon's face. "It only needs the backing of some rich man."
Nora quailed at these words. She saw her father as Jon must see him. The suit he wore looked as though it had been slept in, the dark flowing tie gave him a shabby touch of burlesque. She could not bear it if Jon were laughing at him. But Jon's face was inscrutable.
"Let me show you some things I brought back with me," Julian said, singling Jon out from the company. She heard them go upstairs. She stood, restlessly moving about. Fergus smiled at her. "I think your father's great," she said.
She went, rest, urged, to join Jon and her father. If only Julian would say nothing more about needing money. But his words as she entered the back parlor smote her with fear.
"an artist must be free from thought of money. If he is to do his best work."
"Julian!" Nora interrupted breathlessly. "You must show me some of your pictures!"
Jon was standing up now and he told her easily that he had to go. Nora watched him saying good-by to Aunt Em, telling her how he had enjoyed the dinner party. As Jon said good-by she seemed to catch a fleeting glimpse of her father through Jon's eyes. A battered old showman not to be taken seriously. For Jon was shrewdly aware of those who wished to use him for his money. He knew that Julian Lake had singled him out for his purpose; though no word had been spoken.

"We have no money."
"But he has!"
"Who?"
"Jonathan Thayer."
"Julian, you couldn't take money from him. You must see! Oh, can't I make you see? It would kill me if you ask him for money!"
"Why?"
"Because I never want to see him again. He pities us. Oh, how I hate him!" she said, half to herself.
"So that's that!"
She knew her cheeks began to burn scarlet. Her father had seen at once what she had not known until now. She loved Jon.
She sat very still as though the slightest gesture might betray her. She loved Jon. That was perhaps why she had come home; why she had married Nicholas; so that she might be near Jon again. And she had tangled motives until this moment. She wanted him so dreadfully. And her father had sent him away by letting him know he needed money. She knew with what unceasing power Julian would lay bare this sudden terrifying knowledge. She sat still, scarcely daring to breathe, to lift her eyes, waiting for the moment when he would pounce upon her secret.
Aunt Em came in to save her. Would Julian stay with them to-night, she asked. He told her that he would roll up in his steamer rug and sleep on the floor. But Nora said that he should have her room and she would sleep on the couch in the back parlor. She hurried up to her own room, thankful to be alone.
But when she reached the attic she sat down by the window, looking out at the stars through the horse chestnut branches. "I love him." The little words curled up about her heart. How did you make people love you? What did you do? What was the secret thing you said? (Copyright, 1931, Jessie Douglas Fox)

Running away? Nora tries it Monday, but the truth she rebels against pursues her.

SUNDAY'S GAMES
Green Bay at Kaukauna.
Kimberly at Shawano.
Wisconsin Rapids at Appleton.

With one victory, a most impressive one at that, chalked up on the win side of the ledger, Auggie Brandt's Pords in the Fox River Valley Baseball league will open the 1931 season tomorrow afternoon with the championship Wisconsin Rapids team.

And as is fitting and proper with a ball club that has gotten off to a good start on foreign fields, the Appleton management has arranged a few extra details for the opener, such as having Mayor John Goodland toss the first ball and August Brandt try to catch it.

A big crowd is expected to see

Hats off! You're in the presence of the king. Here he is, the great Man of War, 11 years after he won 20 of his 21 races. This aristocrat of the turf kingdom is 14 years old and hale and hearty as ever, thank you. He resides in kindly quarters at the late Hour farm near Lexington, Ky. Thousands of visitors call on him annually and he never fails to strut in regal fashion. This is his latest picture. You're welcome.

Chaff 'n Chatter

By Gordon R. McIntyre

Percy Clapp
HE state of Wisconsin is making a great mistake in allowing Coach Clapp to get away from Milwaukee State Teachers' college, said Thursday night at a banquet given in honor of Coach Percy O. Clapp, who has resigned his position here to become head football coach at Lawrence college, Appleton, next fall.

The banquet was attended by scores of football and track men who worked under Coach Clapp since his advent in Wisconsin football circles in 1925, faculty members and men students at the college.

Continuing his praise of Coach Clapp, Mr. Baker said he would be willing to recommend the retiring mentor for any coaching position in the country that Mr. Clapp has made an enviable record.

Those who saw the game were thrilled with the manner in which the southpaw worked and returned home to tell others about it. Behr has pitched seven league games for Appleton since he joined the club and has won all of them. Six of the wins were chalked up last summer and one this spring.

The Tords will use the same lineup that showed against Kimberly last week. Leo Murphy will be behind the log handling the big pad and "Phantom" Eggert will perform at first base. Stan Peterson gets the call for second base, George Weisberger, short, and Cully Schultz third base.

In the outfield Manager Smith will work the centerfield game, Arnie Hillman will snare fly balls in left and Dais Crowe in right. Van Wyck also may get a chance to cavort with the daisies.

The 1930 champions from Central Wisconsin will be desperate when they arrive here Sunday. They opened the 1931 season last week at home and raised the league flag with due ceremony. Then they went out and took a trimming from Kaukauna. For this reason they will be gunning for someone when they arrive at Brandt park.

"Specs" Eastling who hung up an impressive hurling record last year probably will be on the mound against the Tords. "Specs" was the well known "duck soup" for the Tords two years ago but last year they spent several tough afternoons solving his slants.

Manager Leo Huber will stick to practically the same lineup that won for him last season. McClain will be behind the plate, Judnick at first base, Johnny Kuenn at second, Bromley at short and Stub Huber at third. Sandrin will be in left field, Hethenrich in center and Art Plahmer in right field.

The game starts at 2:30.

TOMMY LOUGHRAN AGAIN CONTENDER; HUMBLER CAMPOLO

Philadelphia Shows Class as He Trounces Giant Argentinian

BY HERBERT W. BARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK —(P)—Back into the front rank of the heavyweight brigade today strode Philadelphia's giant killer, Tommy Loughran, former king of all the 175-pounders.

He spotted Victorio Campolo nearly 50 pounds in weight and seven inches in height and then did everything but knock out the South American giant in their ten round bout in Madison Square Garden last night. Tommy received the unanimous verdict of the referee and two judges and an ovation from the crowd of 10,000.

The victory put Loughran back in the high place he held in the heavyweight picture before he was stopped by Jack Sharkey two years ago. He now must be given equal consideration with Sharkey, Max Baer and Young Stribling and probably will figure in one of the big outdoor heavyweight shows this summer.

Campolo seems to have lost his chance of edging into the picture. He made a sorry showing against the nimble, smart Loughran and at the end was much more tired than his little conqueror.

Cought napping by Campolo's opening round Tommy took plenty of body punishment throughout the opening stanza. That round, and the ninth, were the only ones that Campolo won.

Campolo had been labelled a heavy right hand puncher but Tommy took his best punches without wavering perceptibly. And Tommy, notorious by one of the fastest hitters in the business, several times nearly floored the giant with straight rights that landed on Campolo's chin as he floundered in.

In the eighth round, the rivals collided head-on and Loughran came out with a deep cut over his left eye. Blood poured from the wound as Campolo called the fight to the Philadelphia in the tenth round and Tommy took a bad beating before the bell came to his rescue. In the last round he drew blood from Campolo's nose with a hard right just before the final bell.

Loughran weighed 154 pounds; Campolo 232.

SERVICE BAKERY TEAM PLAYS HERE TOMORROW

Service Bakery team of the Fox River Valley softball league will play its second home game at 10 o'clock Sunday morning at Pierce park. Menasha team, holder of first honors, will be the opponent. Klein, Hollenbeck and Gressenz will hurl for the Bakery team and Bowers will catch.

KIMBERLY AT KIMBERLY

Kimberly—The Kimberly entry in the Fox River Soft Ball League will play its first home game Sunday morning at 10 o'clock at the ball park. The Kimberly club team has lost two games, the first to Menasha by a seven to six count, and last Sunday to Appleton by a 7 to 0 count. Last week the Kimberly aggregation played without the services of its star pitcher "Dud" Courchane. The Kaukauna team has not fared so well in recent games and the two teams will both try to break into the win column Sunday.

Valley Cagers May Play 14 League Games This Year

A PROPOSAL that the present limited round robin basketball schedule employed in the Fox River Valley conference be replaced by an arrangement whereby each school would have home and home games with every conference opponent, necessitating a 14-game schedule instead of the present 10-game card, will be deliberated here Wednesday by a committee comprising one representative of each of the eight schools.

The proposal was made by Coach C. G. Abendroth of Sheboygan high school at the regular spring meeting of the conference at Sheboygan. The Wednesday meeting at Appleton planned as the time when official action will be taken, Coach Abendroth argued for the schedule change on the grounds that it would promote competition on a much fairer basis. The limited round robin schedule, whereby each school drops two opponents a season, has been tried for the past three years and the arrangement has expired.

Hold Golf Meet
Football, golf and tennis schedules for the conference also were deliberated at the meeting here. Conference representatives were entertained at a luncheon at the Foeste Hotel at noon.

The only important rules change enacted was that football umpires will be made responsible for timing of games instead of local officials especially appointed to that capacity.

The conference tennis meet will be held at Oshkosh in June. The first golf tournament in the history of the conference, with each of the eight schools competing, will be held at Green Bay June 12.

Berlin at Menasha.
Redgranite at Omro.

Oshkosh—Hoping for fine weather Sunday afternoon at Menominee park, the Oshkosh Indians are preparing themselves for the invasion of the North Fond du Lac club, 1930 champions of the Winnerago league.

As it will be the opening game before the home fans for the Indians they have been practicing hard this week to get into shape for the struggle.

Joe Hable, Indian pitcher, will take the mound in a hurling duel with "Torky" Penzenstadler and there is much for each to gain or lose.

Hable has been hurling nice ball this season and with two of his older brothers behind him shouting encouragement he has all the confidence in the world regardless of how tough the spot. His big brother "Tink" plays at shortstop and Bill Hable, a new addition to the club this year, is at second base.

Bernard Catching
Bernard, catcher of the club, is a good little receiver for Joe. Like Bill Hable, Bernard came from the Omro club and the local fans are glad to see both Oshkosh boys playing with the Oshkosh club.

Oshkosh with a young club has speed and expects to make up for what possibly may be lacking in experience. Zinth "Tink" and Joe Hable, Fuhs, Duex and Kroening are the youngest players on the team and are all fast men.

North Fond du Lac is feared by other clubs of the league because the team has a number of heavy hitters, but Hable and the Oshkosh club are confident that they can turn them back. The Oshkosh players have been breezing along in fine style the last two Sundays and feel that if the pace can be maintained here Sunday victory will come to them.

Cards At Appleton
The Oshkosh Cardinals are away this weekend, Manager Sommerfeld taking his team to Appleton to meet the Noffke Fuels. The Cards beat Berlin in the opening league game here last week 10 to 1 and will try to hand Appleton the same dose.

Manager Sommerfeld will have Greitzen to do the pitching and Sam himself will do the catching. The Cards may lose Pat Hewlett, shortstop, who has shown some indications that he might join the Berlin club to play with his brother, Bill Hewlett.

Berlin clashes with Menasha and Redgranite is at Omro in the other league games.

Larry French Hurls Bucs To 3 To 2 Victory Over Giants In Ten Innings

BY HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer
LARRY FRENCH, Pittsburgh left hander, has a little repetition of history to talk about.

Two years ago, French faced the New York Giants in his debut as a major league pitcher, after a great struggle, the Pirates won in the tenth, 3 to 2, when Pie Traynor singled to drive in the winning run. Yesterday Larry made his first New York appearance of the 1931 season in New York and battled Clarence Mitchell of the Giants to a 2-2 standstill in the regular nine innings.

Then in the tenth George Grant, who grounded hit first base and batted away for a double and Traynor rapped a single to center, bringing in a run that spelled a 3-2 victory.

The Phillies also did a little duplicating but for them it meant only a double loss to the Cincinnati Reds in a double header. Chuck Klein hit a pair of homers in the second game and the Phils scored five runs in each clash but the final scores were 10 to 5 and 7 to 5 in favor of Cincinnati. The double victory made it three straight for the Reds and five victories in all.

Robins Down Cubs
In Brooklyn, Pea Ridge Day started pitching in the first inning after the Chicago Cubs had knocked Babe Phelps from the mound and pitched nine good innings. The Robins recovered when Del Blissette hit a homer in the fourth and scored four runs for a 5-4 triumph.

The St. Louis-Boston series became a total loss when the third straight game was postponed. All but one of the numerous winning and losing streaks in the American league continued unchanged. The New York Yankees were halted after five victories when George Uhle, making his first start of the year, shut them out with five hits to give the Yanks a 2 to 0 victory.

The league leading Athletics won their seventh in row, beating Cleveland 4 to 0 behind Ed Rommel's fine pitching. Clint Brown kept pace with Rommel for six innings but the A's came through to score all their runs in the last three. It was Cleveland's seventh straight defeat. The Chicago White Sox scored eight runs against Boston but made an equal number of errors and also lost their seventh in succession. The Boston Red Sox took the lead in the third with the aid of three errors and finished ahead by a 12-5 count.

Walter Stewart of the St. Louis Browns, who stopped Washington five straight times last season, found this year's Senators a different proposition. The Browns gave him a good lead but he lost it suddenly in the eighth when Washington scored five runs to win 8 to 5. George Goslin came out of a hitting slump in the only American league homer of the day.

LITTLE CHUTERS AFTER 3RD WIN IN LITTLE FOX LEAGUE

Meet DePere Motors at DePere; Appleton Plays at Green Bay

SUNDAY GAMES
Appleton at Green Bay.
Little Chute at DePere.
Menasha at Neenah.

THE northeastern end of the Little Fox River Valley League will be the scene of two of Sunday's games when a pair of Appleton, with a 1-1 victory over Menasha and a hard fought 3-1 trim of the league leaders mingle with two of the circuit's newcomers, one of which has not yet played any of its now rivals.

ming from the undefeated Little Chute nine, is slated for Green Bay while the league leading Hollanders hop over to DePere for a game. The third game features the ancient rivals, Menasha and Neenah, at Neenah's diamond.

The Haanen Druggs of Green Bay, Appleton's host, lost to Neenah last Sunday in a much better game than the score would indicate. A few errors at critical times and wildness of the hurlers allowing the Merchants to pile up a big lead. The Baymen showed lots of potential hitting power against Fahrengug, boss right hander of the league. Before the home crowd and with the usual festivities of the home opener to encourage them the Druggs should give Little Kranzsch and his Appleton team plenty to worry about. Two week spots about the team have been straitened, according to Manager John Adams.

DePere Motors also must face a south paw in "Stoney" Vandersteent, the only unbeaten regular moundman in the loop.

The Chuters have won two hard games in two weeks by score of 9-8 and 3-1 and league followers expect them to crash under the strain if the Motors of any kind of competition. Little is known about the team's strength as it has yet to play a league game, but on paper it stacks up with the best in the circuit. Kellerman, former Little Fox and Outagamie-co loo DePere hurler, again is on the mound staff and if he still retains his cunning he could bother the Hollanders considerably. He was once considered "bad medicine" for his Sunday rivals.

Little need be said in this vicinity about a Neenah-Menasha game. The Twin City rivals always furnish the fans with an interesting struggle because of their rivalry though one be at the bottom in the league standings and the other at the top. Last year Neenah had taken three straight killings and Menasha was undefeated when they met at Neenah, and the team crew came through to conquer. Plans are being made for a crowd from both cities.

the Future of Your Community and Country Depends Upon Building

Build, Repair, Remodel NOW, While Costs Are at Their Very Lowest

In a century and a half of history, the pace of American progress has been set by building. As an American community, Appleton, in a measure, has reflected this spirit. The community built, became increasingly desirable, its population grew. Yet, building progress has been behind the progress of the city. Appleton has steadily outgrown its existing homes and buildings. Constantly, new homes are necessary, old ones need the guiding hands of builders to make them modern. Commercial building must go on.

This progress must not be slowed down. Appleton today stands as one of the few cities in the entire country that need building and need it NOW. This situation exists and the need will become even more acute . . . and building costs must increase. Building done now will be worth much more in a surprisingly short time.

That is why you should seriously plan to build at once. Building material prices — forced down by nation-wide conditions — are generally lower in price than they have been for fifteen years. Labor is plentiful. Here are two conditions which cannot exist with the recovery of business nationally. They give Appleton — the city with the highest per capita expenditures in the state — a unique opportunity:

In this city — still prosperous — building can be done at costs as low as in cities hard hit by the depression!

Be fair with yourself. Look frankly at the present condition of your home, your commercial buildings. Are they as modern, in as good condition as they should be? Now you can improve your property and, instead of depreciation, see your improvements ACTUALLY INCREASE IN VALUE!

What about the idle property you own or consider purchasing at an attractive price? If you arrange to build now, you may expect a lower estimate on every phase of building than will be available during the next building season. If, when that season comes, your construction is completed, its value will have already begun to increase.

That is why we say — build, remodel, repair, modernize NOW. Much of future prosperity depends upon you. Get in touch with some of the firms listed on this advertisement. They are most keenly interested in building and in offering you the best planning, labor and materials at the lowest prices since the war.
